

CORNELL WINS THE BIG RACE.

Great Rowing Races of the Year Were Held at Poughkeepsie Today.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 21.—Cornell Wins the 'Varsity Eight-Oared Race.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 21.—A drizzling rain and a nasty gray sky without a single rift in it justified the hope of clearing weather. The weather was just what the rowers needed to see what the indications were for today's race. The early morning rain had a depressing influence, and up to the middle of the forenoon there was the slightest gathering of spectators, ever seen in Poughkeepsie on a similar occasion. There was a little or no wind and the course was perfectly smooth. Mr. Ponce and Mr. Fort Meyer, of the Amateur Association expressed the belief that if it cleared up the conditions would be ideal for the making of fast time and that in any event, even if the rain continued, the race should be rowed this afternoon.

CREWS IN TRIM. All of the crew coaches this morning said their men were in good condition. The coxswain lounged around their boat-houses this morning or kept well in quarters to avoid the natural chill in the atmosphere.

For the freshmen eight, Wisconsin was this morning a decided favorite and even Cornell backers, who are usually quick to take bets, and especially when odds were offered were asking for two to one with Wisconsin favorites.

In the varsity Cornell is a strong favorite and although in some cases the field was offered against Cornell at a good advantage, there were few takers. The only wager of any importance laid was one of $1,000 by Pennsylvania adherents that their varsity crew would beat Georgetown, the Georgetown adherents taking it at the odds of two to one.

NOT SURE VICTORY. Coach Courtney of the Cornell crew said this morning that while he did not share his varsity crew fit, he did not consider any outside predictions of sure victory. He thought it was going to be a very hard, hot race and would not be won until toward the end of the last mile. He talked this to his men, preferring that they should go out with the feeling that they would have to row the race for all they were worth. Curiously enough there are a good many Columbia College people here, there is little if any money being placed on Columbia to win. In a pool made last night on the varsity race in which Cornell sold for $9 and Pennsylvania for $5, Columbia sold for $1. This is strange, in view of the fact that Coach Hanlon has talked very favorably of his men, and believes they will make a great showing.

UNKNOWN FACTOR. The unknown factor in the race is Georgetown. Its varsity crew has rowed very fast over the four mile course, but the general impression among the rowing sharps is that while she will be very formidable, for three miles, she will not be able to keep the pace to the finish.

Syracuse does not seem to figure in the "before the race" predictions, and Pennsylvania, whose crews have always made a big showing, and on several occasions have won on this course, is also getting very little consideration among those who are picking winners.

A NASTY WIND. Towards 10 o'clock, while there was no abatement of the rain there came up a nasty wind from the south. It blew straight up the course and even with the flood tide, kicked up quite a swell, portending that when the tide ebbed, if the wind continued to blow from the south, there would be such conditions that the race could not be rowed. As the day advanced the wind increased and stayed in the same general direction from the south, but the indications toward 11 o'clock were that it might get around to the west.

At noon the rain had stopped and the wind, which before was blowing from the southeast, shifted to due south. The choppy water had subsided and the river was smooth.

SPRINGS A SURPRISE. Ellis Ward, the Pennsylvania coach, sprang a surprise on his own men as well as the entire rowing colony this morning by fixing his shells with aluminum washboards. This is an innovation in the rigging of eight-oared shells, but it was generally considered a clever idea.

At 2:30 P. M., a drizzling rain was falling and a heavy fog lay over the river. In spite of the threatening weather, the special trains brought in large numbers of enthusiastic spectators. The wind was from the northwest and, although light, will be with the crews.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH PRISONERS.

Foreigners Made an Attack on Americans and There Was Trouble.

OFFICERS HAD TO USE THEIR REVOLVERS.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., June 21.—Dominick Sandor, Tony Madron, and Louis Madron, Italians, narrowly escaped lynching early today at the hands of a mob. Late yesterday David James, a prominent citizen, was assaulted by the foreigners, and Frank James, his son, who pushed to his rescue, was mortally wounded. The Italians fled, but were captured and returned to the local police station. A mob of 500 demanded the prisoners and they were spirited away to the railroad station. The mob reached the station before the train left and nearly wrecked the building in their efforts to get at the prisoners. The officers kept the mob at a distance with drawn revolvers. Several hundred men pursued the carriage in which the prisoners were taken to the next town, but the would-be lynchers were outdistanced and the Italians were safely lodged in the Greenville jail.

TWO PEOPLE ARE MURDERED.

ROBBERS ENTER THE HOUSE AND KILL BEFORE ROBBING THE PLACE.

DES MOINES, June 21.—James Gallagher and wife were murdered by robbers at River Junction last night. They were found dead in bed this morning by their children.

HIS SENTENCE IS FOR LIFE.

CONVICTED MURDERER IS SENT TO THE PENITENTIARY BY THE JUDGE.

DETROIT, June 21.—William M. Jones was today convicted of the murder of George H. Heywood on April 9 last and sentenced to life imprisonment. The jury was out only ten minutes.

The murder was well planned, and it is believed that but for the evidence of a child of the victim Jones would have escaped conviction. Jones lay in wait for Heywood, who had attended a dance that evening, unaccompanied by his wife. He first shot and then crushed Heywood's skull with a hammer. The evidence was entirely circumstantial.

NEW CRUISER FOR UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—In the presence of a distinguished company of naval officers, many leading citizens from Colorado, and a large number of persons from New York and other nearby cities, the unnamed cruiser Denver was successfully launched this afternoon at the Neff and Levy shipyard.

Miss Roberta M. Wright, daughter of Mayor Wright of Denver, christened the cruiser. Because of the heavy rainstorm, the launching was postponed until nearly three o'clock. When all was in readiness and just as the blow which was to release the new cruiser was being struck, Miss Wright stepped to the edge of the stand and broke the traditional bottle of champagne on the bow of the new addition to the United States Navy. There was tremendous tooting of whistles from the vessels lying at anchor close to the yard and deafening cheers as the Denver slid gracefully into the Delaware river.

Many Mills Are Burned and the Loss Will Be Heavy.

TACOMA, Wn., June 21.—At 9 o'clock this morning the fire has receded from Hot Springs, near the summit of the Cascade range. The wind has changed and is now blowing back over the burned country. The large hotel and health resort at Hot Springs was saved by the hardest kind of work on the part of the Tacoma Fire Department, which was sent on a special train. The sixty mile up the mountain side was made in two hours. There is no further danger unless a change of wind occurs. The surrounding forests in the Cascade mountains are still ablaze, but the most combustible material has all been consumed and only the fire can feed. The fire engines and hose loaned by Tacoma to various threatened towns are being returned. Since the engines were sent away, Tacoma has had four fires, one a brush fire of considerable proportions on the outskirts. The fires on the mountain, although thirty to fifty miles away, have made the weather almost unbearable in Tacoma and clouds of smoke still hang over the city. MURDERER IS SHOT BY ANGRY MOB.

He Was Worried by Boys and Killed the City Marshal.

SHERIFF BELIEVED TO HAVE FIRED SHOT.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 21.—At Jefferson, Iowa, today, S. M. Shipman, a half-witted man, was shot to death by a mob. Shipman had shot and killed John Swearington, the town marshal, while resisting arrest. News of Swearington's death spread like wild fire and soon an excited mob surrounded Shipman's house. Weapons were at once produced and the house was literally riddled with bullets. A ball from the Sheriff's revolver is believed to have inflicted the fatal wound. After Shipman's death the mob dispersed. Shipman had been stoning some boys who had been ridiculing him and Swearington went to serve a warrant on him. In response to his knock, Shipman fired twice, killing the marshal instantly.

KILLED FIVE COWBOYS IN THE BATTLE.

Old Indian Fighter and Cattleman Know How to Shoot.

TROUBLE OVER THE USING OF WATER.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 21.—A report has reached Albuquerque of a fight between cattlemen near Tucuman, which resulted in the death of five cowpunchers. According to the story "Bud" Lee of Dona Ana county had watered his cattle at a hole and allowed his cattle to walk through the spring and ruin it against the protests of other cattlemen, who were using the same spring. Lee was warned if he repeated the action he would be killed. He claimed to have a right to do as he wished with the water and later came again, accompanied by an old Italian fighter. Eight cowboys were lying in wait for him. When the battle which followed was over, five of the eight cowboys were dead and the other three had fled. Lee and his partner were untouched. They gave themselves up to Sheriff Romero of Guadalupe county.

COL. LYNCH IS AGAIN REMANDED.

PROSECUTION WILL HAVE TO WAIT FOR WITNESSES TO ARRIVE.

LONDON, June 21.—Colonel Arthur Lynch, member-elect of Parliament for Galway, and formerly of the Boer army, who is in custody on the charge of high treason, was today again remanded until June 21, witnesses in the case not having arrived in London.

TRAMPS CAUGHT IN A WRECK.

TWO ARE KILLED AND THE TRAINMEN ARE INJURED.

FAIRBURY, Neb., June 21.—Ten tramps on their way to the Kansas wheat fields were caught in the wreck of a Rock Island freight train at Thompson, near here, last night.

One taken out of the wreck was unconscious and died later in the debris. Two others are injured in the debris. Conductor Alcott and two brakemen were slightly hurt.

STREET CAR MEN GO ON A STRIKE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 21.—The street car men of this city went on strike this morning.

More than 900 men stopped work. The employees demand recognition of their union, 25 cents an hour and a nine-hour day. The company is willing to pay from 17 to 21 cents an hour. The men, it is understood, will accept from 18 to 21 cents.

WYETH WINS GREAT DERBY.

Sixty Thousand People Witnessed the Exciting Finish—Lucien Appleby Second.

CHICAGO, June 21.—All of the twelve horses carded to start today in the fifteenth American Derby, at the Washington Park track, are said to be in good condition and it is doubted if there will be many withdrawals, though the owner of Prowl may decide that the track is not slow enough to give his colt the chance which it was thought he would have in deep going.

At present the prospects are for ideal weather and it is believed the famous countryside course will have dried up so much that by the time of the race, 4 o'clock, the going will be fairly good if not almost fast. This will enhance the chances of Heno, the favorite, and of the favorite horses generally, and will mitigate against the outsiders. LARGE ATTENDANCE. Secretary Howard is counting on an attendance of 60,000 people and would not be surprised if it is in excess of that number. The latest betting on the event, as announced this morning at an up-town hotel is as follows: Heno, 2 to 1; Pentecost, 4 to 1; Arsenal, 4 to 1; Belles Commoner, 7 to 1; Hermis, 10 to 1; Otis, 10 to 1; Hildreth, 10 to 1; Lucien Appleby, 10 to 1; Wyeth, 10 to 1; Aladdin, 12 to 1; Prowl, 15 to 1; Corrigan, 25 to 1.

It is announced that either J. Matthews or Otis will have the mount on Prowl, if the latter starts, instead of Davidson, as was announced last night, while Auburn will ride Aladdin. The latter has come in for a strong play and some of the smart betters say Aladdin will win either on a good or a heavy track.

Heno, the favorite, took his morning canter with Jockey Bullman in the saddle, and the rail birds watched them intently and agreed they are a hard pair to beat. Pentecost, with little Redfern up, breezed half a mile fighting for his head. He seemed a big handful for the midge on his back, and some wonder was expressed that Madison did not start. Corriggan, a jockey of more power and experience to ride his colt in such a great race.

Arsenal, with O'Connor up, went six furlongs at half speed. The colt moved well, and the rail birds passed many complimentary remarks on the skill of his pilot.

LIGHT WORK. Hermis, Belles Commoner and Wyeth trotted and cantered enough to warm up a little and show that they are in good form. Otis, Aladdin, Prowl, Lucien Appleby and Jockey did not work at the Harlem Park race track, where they have been stabled during the spring meeting, and shortly before 3 o'clock were loaded on to a special train and started for the scene of this afternoon's contest. All looked fit and well, but it is thought that one or two of them will not start. Corriggan, Lucky Baldwin's colt, also is regarded as a doubtful starter.

POST ODDS. WASHINGTON PARK, June 21.—Derby starters go to the post at 1:55. Post odds to win—Heno, 2 to 1; Corriggan, 4 to 1; Pentecost, 5 to 1; Arsenal, 5 to 1; Wyeth, 10 to 1; Belles Commoner, 7 to 1; Otis, 10 to 1; Hildreth, 10 to 1; Lucien Appleby, 10 to 1; Aladdin, 12 to 1; Prowl, 15 to 1; Corrigan, 25 to 1.

THE WINNER. Wyeth wins the Derby. Lucien Appleby second. Aladdin was third. Time, 2:29 1-5.

HE SHOT HIMSELF. SAN DIEGO, June 21.—David Morry, whose home is in Redlands, committed suicide in a lodging house in this city at an early hour this morning by sending a bullet into the side of his head. He had been a great sufferer from eczema and left letters stating that this was the cause of his act. He was 75 years old.

NOME CITY ARRIVES FROM THE NORTH. SEATTLE, Wash., June 21.—The Nome City reached Nome June 20th and departed June 10th. On June 20, the steamer Portland was sighted in the lee off Cape Prince of Wales.

Other arrivals at Nome reported by Captain Daniels of the Nome City and Steamer Elk, June 20: United States revenue cutter Thetis, June 7th; steamer Dora, June 8th; Steamer Sadie, from St. Michaels, June 7th.

On the return voyage, the Nome City passed the steamer America in Bering Sea June 12th. The Nome City brought the mail.

OAKLAND MAN MADE THE ARREST. TUCSON, Ariz., June 21.—Mrs. Caroline Irwin of Los Angeles, who was arrested here Thursday night as she alighted from the train by Detective Juan Eading of Oakland, on the charge of having violated the Edmunds act, was discharged today by the United States court.

LOST. Failing to Heed Ismar's Warning, James McNally Lost $400. Every Word of the Woman of Mystery Proved True.

Early in May James McNally, of 715 Montgomery street, San Francisco, was warned by Ismar that the money he had invested with the American Co-operative Association would be lost unless he withdrew it at once. He failed to heed the warning, and yesterday wrote Ismar requesting that she publish the fact that his failure to act upon her advice cost him the $400 he had invested with the American Co-operative Association.

Yesterday and this morning the daily papers announce the closing up of the American Co-operative Association's business and the flight of the manager. Severe yet have Ismar's words proved erroneous; invariably her advice is sound and right and her words always prove true.

NEWARK HAS WARM WEATHER.

Boy Burns Himself With Carbolic Acid--Recent Social Events.

NEWARK, June 21.—We are getting our long delayed hot weather now. The mercury is steadily climbing, and those who were grumbling at the late spring are now ready to cry "enough."

It is said that Mr. Martell will open his saloon in Newark's store July 1st.

It would be easier to tell who remained home than who went to the picnic at Glenwood this week. Nearly everybody boarded the train for the picnic.

The Misses Graham, Miss Wiles and their chaperone, Mrs. Schenck, are enjoying their visit in Los Angeles greatly. The party will be the guests of Mrs. A. Hook for a few days before their return.

Mrs. Moore and two sons went to Oakland to be present at the marriage of Miss Neva Jarvis and Ezra Decker. Mrs. P. C. Jarvis and daughters were also among the guests.

Mr. Lynch and family have moved to the house lately occupied by Sanford Bell, who has taken the cyclo building in Centerville.

Manuel Nevis was married to a young lady from Pescadero Monday at 8 a. m. by Rev. Father Gorman.

The exercises of Children's Day, held in the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening last, were directed to by a large number of people, and were very interesting. Miss Flora Brown is now and has been its efficient superintendent since its organization.

It is said there is not a vacant house in the town.

Cherry picking and picking will soon be over, but there have been quite a little force of girls employed during the season.

The little son of Deputy Coroner Francis, of Centerville, has been stopping with his grandmother, Mrs. Toulon, since the illness of little Dorothy with scarlet fever and diphtheria, and the quarantining of the house in Centerville in consequence. The child by some means got hold of a bottle of carbolic acid, burning his face somewhat and one of his legs severely. A bad sore was the result, but he is now better, and as Miss Dorothy is also out of danger, the quarantine upon the Francis home will soon be raised. Mrs. Francis and the nurse are both suffering with mumps.

The baseball game between Alvarado and Newark, played on Sunday last, was witnessed by a large number of interested spectators. Victory perched on the banner of the home team, the score standing Newark, 4; Alvarado, 0.

STOLE THE GOLD AND CERTIFICATES

The home of Mrs. C. J. Kinney at 1122 Eleventh street, was entered some time yesterday morning and a purse containing $200 in gold and several certificates of deposit for $5,000 in local banks were taken. The money and certificates were in the pocket of an old wrapper on a bed a few feet from a window. The police are of the opinion that a clever Eastern sneak thief did the work.

ASSISTANT PASTOR FOR ST. PAUL'S

The Rev. James Hulme, formerly rector of St. Andrew's Church, West Oakland, has been chosen assistant rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Robert Ritchie is rector. The Rev. Mr. Hulme will enter upon his new duties on August 1st.

PICKLE WORKS TO BE BUILT AT SAN LEANDRO.

A New Industry Which Means Much For the Town.

CONCERTS IN PLAZA ON THURSDAY NIGHTS.

SAN LEANDRO, June 21.—Another large industry will shortly locate in San Leandro and is one that will be greatly appreciated by both the business men and growers in this section. The new company is the well-known Pacific Preserve Company of San Francisco. This company has many contracts with growers in this district. They put up pickles, catsup and various other articles of a similar nature.

Manager J. Loos of the Preserve Company made a trip to this place recently, where he deposited money for the purchase of four lots located between the cannery and evaporator. This property is owned by Mrs. Goodman and has a frontage of 150 feet on the railroad, with a sidewalk within easy reach, and is a most desirable location for such an establishment. Mr. Loos has for some time been endeavoring to secure the buildings of the Bowdoin Evaporator Company and it is possible that he may be able to make the purchase. Should this proposition fall through, however, the company will begin building by July 1st so as to be in shape to handle this season's tomatoes. The new company, when established, will employ twenty-five people all the time and during the busy season nearly double that number will be required to handle the business. San Leandro is a desirable location for a pickle works, as the surrounding country will be able to supply the finest vegetables for that purpose that are grown.

A BAND CONCERT. An open-air concert was given Thursday evening by the Standard Band of this place. It drew a large crowd about the plaza and all the auditors declared the music to be of the best order. The concert will be given every Thursday night during the summer months, which announcement has been well received by the town.

A SURPRISE PARTY. A surprise party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson recently at their home on Joaquin avenue. It was under the auspices of Olive Branch Circle and was attended by the following friends: Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Richard, Mrs. Passler, Mrs. Dickinson, Miss E. Rushing, Miss Stone, C. Rindeschaper and many other members of the Circle. A most enjoyable evening was spent at games and dancing.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS. A number of business establishments of this place have recently had telephones put in their places of business. Among those who secured the phones are: Wells, Fargo & Co., Mr. J. A. Geller, E. Howard, Mr. Sanger, San Leandro Hotel and J. A. Holmgren. The new number of telephones is a sign of increasing prosperity.

WILL BUILD HANDSOME RESIDENCE. The contract for building the handsome residence to be erected for Mrs. Ivy on her lot opposite St. Mary's convent was let Thursday. The plans for the building were drawn by F. D. Voorhees, the Oakland architect, while the work will be done by E. J. Brophy, whose bid was $5,385.

DEATH OF G. BERTI. Giocando Berti, a well-known San Francisco commission merchant, died at his home in San Francisco on Wednesday. He was well known in this district, having had business connections here for many years.

BOY WAS DROWNED. Last Tuesday Andrew, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jewell of Greenville, was drowned while swimming in the Russian river about one-half mile from Greenville. The body was recovered by Frank Kimer of this city, who is camping near the scene of the tragedy.

ALVARADO HAS THE MEASLES.

Death of an Estimable Lafly--Benedicts and Bachelors Matched.

ALVARADO, June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Granger and children and Mrs. S. Harvey and Mr. J. Robinson all left Thursday for Pescadero, where they will camp a few weeks.

Mrs. Drennan and Miss Mary Riley of Oakland are here and will spend several weeks.

Miss Mildred Naught has returned from San Francisco, where she represented Olivia Parlor No. 61, N. D. G. W., at the Grand Parlor.

Mrs. John L. Olson, Misses Ella and Kate Mathews are in the Santa Cruz mountains for a week.

Charles N. Hyer of the city spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Chas. R. Nauert. His son and daughter will spend their vacation here.

Measles are still prevalent. Hardly a family has missed them. While the disease has been unusually severe, but two deaths have resulted, that of Mrs. Borgers being particularly sad. She was but 36 years of age and leaves a husband and six small children to mourn her loss. The funeral took place last Tuesday. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery at Centerville. It was largely attended and sympathy goes out to the family.

The married men will play the single men at baseball next Sunday. It is causing much interest and a large crowd will undoubtedly be present when the game is called.

Mrs. Snow and daughter, Goldie, are at V. R. Ralston's. They expect to leave for their home in New Jersey next week.

Miss Clara Jackson has returned from a visit to Sacramento. Mrs. D. Jackson is entertaining two little nieces from San Francisco.

The Misses Low spent Saturday and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. J. Leal. Mrs. Harry Vandervoort has returned from a visit to Crockett. She will shortly leave for Palo Alto, where her husband is engaged in business.

THE NEWS LETTER.

To conduct a weekly paper so as to please all classes of intelligent readers is no easy task--yet the San Francisco News Letter is pre-eminent such a paper, each issue containing a wide variety of matter. The story this week is "The Nautic Champion," by W. O. McGehee, a tale of a bad woman's triumph over a good one. It is rather a bold idea, and the story is excellently told. E. A. Brimstone contributes a touching little sketch showing that the dog-catcher sometimes has a heart. "Red Bud," is a beautiful bit of verse by Ellen Mederitz. "The Looker-On" has a spicy story about Sohl Sanderson and James Gordon Bennett, and also tells of a son of King Edward who lives in San Francisco. The principal characteristic of the News Letter is its smartness. All its paragraphs and comment are bright and clear. Its financial, insurance, dramatic and literary departments are ably handled. Under the head of "Society," Etsy Bird tells a lot of interesting gossip of the smart set, and presents a complete and authoritative record of their comings and goings.

AT SAMUEL SODA SPRINGS. Arrivals at Samuel Springs for the week are as follows:

Dr. H. M. Pond and wife, Alameda; J. R. Hardin and wife, Pope Valley; Miss Francis Hardin, Pope Valley; Ethlyn Swift, Berryessa; Perrine Swift, Berryessa; Tom Adams, Berryessa; J. W. Vassam, Berryessa; Harley Sommers, Berryessa; Pearl Moore, Steele Canyon; James Moore; Miss Emma Jackson, Chiles; Reba Jackson, Chiles; T. Gilmore, St. Helena; J. U. Barnett, Pope Valley; W. L. Genung, Vallejo; A. H. Brookins and family, Monticello.

HAYWARDS LAND ATTRACTS BUYERS FROM THE EAST.

Prospects of the Sale of the Roberts' Property.

FRUIT MEN IN NEED OF MEN TO WORK.

HAYWARDS, June 21.—It has been learned from a reliable source, that certain properties about Haywards are being investigated by Eastern capitalists, and it is probable that important realty exchanges may take place shortly. Special attention is being paid by moneyed people to the salt lands in the neighborhood of Roberts' Landing. Experts declare that this district, if properly developed, would be one of the greatest salt-producing sections of the state. It is rumored that the Eastern parties will make a proposition to secure all the property in that district on which it is possible to produce salt. There are about 350 acres in the tract, of these 150 acres are available for salt-making. Should this property be purchased it would, no doubt, be laid out in immense salt basins, from which a revenue could be realized that would be surprising. The development of this district would mean a great deal to the surrounding country, and the people are looking forward to the time when the big improvements will be made.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The new water supply for the sprinkling of Castro Valley has been completed and Supervisor Takoff, under whose direction the work was done, is having constructed along the pipe line a number of watering troughs. This is an improvement that will be appreciated not only by the residents of Castro Valley, but by the traveling public.

GAVE A MUSICAL.

Miss Francis Rogers of Crow Canyon gave a delightful dinner and musicale at her home recently. The event was attended by a number of friends from Oakland, San Francisco and this valley.

WILL RAISE A COYOTE.

The Munter Brothers' kennel succeeded in capturing a coyote and a litter of pups recently. Nearly all the pups were killed by the dogs, but Bert Munter succeeded in saving one, which he will raise.

BIG BALL TONIGHT.

The second grand ball to be given by the Foresters' band will take place tonight at the Casino. The affair promises to be one of the most interesting social events of the season. Aside from dancing, a musical program will be rendered by the band.

PICKLE FACTORY NEARLY COMPLETED.

The large gang of men that have been working on the new pickle factory for several weeks have nearly finished their work, and within a short time the factory will be in shape to begin operations. The projectors expect to handle a great deal of this season's crop, and will also pack when they have completed their picking season. The new establishment will give work to several hundred people.

NEW STRING ORCHESTRA.

The new string orchestra which is being organized by members of the Young Men's Social Club, will shortly include a sufficient number of members. The club has already found among its members several good musicians, and the work of training others will not require much time. Dr. Corwin, who has recently joined the club, has agreed to lead the new orchestra, and with the aid of his considerable ability, the members are confident of success.

LABOR STILL SCARCE.

Despite the increase in wages, labor is still scarce in the district, and also in surrounding districts. It is hardly possible to secure enough men to work in the canneries, while the work of picking is generally done by the members of rancher's family, so difficult it is to find capable men. Many work for a few days and then move on, which is a loss to the ranchers. With the advance in wages of the season, which necessitates an increase in help, a serious situation in the fruit business may result, unless more workers can be secured.

WILL TRAIN BOB FOR COMING FIGHT

GEORGE DAWSON ARRIVES FROM THE EAST AND IS READY FOR WORK.

George Dawson, who will have charge of the training of "Bob" Fitzsimmons for his forthcoming championship fight with James J. Jeffries, arrived yesterday afternoon from Chicago.

He was met at the ferry by Fitzsimmons and his young son and by Billy Jordan and others. Sporting men who remember Dawson as the noted lightweight boxer who nearly killed Denny Needham with his kidney punches in the old California Athletic Club ring, will not recognize him.

He has the broad shoulders and the general appearance of a middle-weight. He shows no signs of the great work he did in the ring, fighting his way to the top of the light-weight division. For some time he has filled the position of boxing instructor with the Chicago Athletic Association. He has been Fitzsimmons' second in his last two fights.

Immediately after his arrival he was taken to the California Hotel, where Fitzsimmons and his wife and little boy are registered. The entire party occupied a box last night at the California Theater, where the Zell company is presenting "Captain Swift." They will see Skaggs probably tomorrow, when Fitzsimmons will settle down in earnest to the routine of training.

The weather has been so warm that Fitzsimmons has been doing his work at 5 o'clock in the morning. During the middle of the day he takes matters easy. At 4 o'clock he goes through his work in the gymnasium. The sides of this are open, permitting a free circulation of whatever air is stirring.

PRIZE FIGHTER DIVORCED.

The World's Best Summer Medicine Paine's Celery Compound

Has Made People Well
When Every Other Remedy
Has Failed.

Paine's Celery Compound cures disease! It has saved the lives of thousands of sufferers. It has made the weak strong, vigorous, and happy.

Paine's Celery Compound purifies the blood and builds up the nervous system as nothing else can do; it is pre-eminent the great life giver and health maker.

Overworked and tired women stand in need of this health giving prescription to make and keep them well. All women should take advantage of the remarkable power of this best of medicines for restoring vigor to the blood and strength to the nervous system.

The all-important thing for nervous, run down, and shattered women is that Paine's Celery Compound fortifies the whole physical system, and by correcting digestion and regulating the nerves, it insures sound, refreshing sleep. In every case of sickness Paine's Celery Compound completely and permanently brings back health.

Mrs. Mary M. Myers, Baltimore, Ohio, saved by Paine's Celery Compound after the failures of able physicians, gratefully writes as follows:—

"I suffered for eight years with nervous prostration and the general debility common to women, and had such pains in my back that I could not get around the house. I used several remedies and consulted several of the best physicians without obtaining any relief. Paine's Celery Compound restored me to health."

"I also want to say to all mothers that Paine's Celery Compound is a splendid medicine for their children."

A BOYS' CHOIR TO BE FORMED AT FRUITVALE.

Successful Ending of a Pleasant Trip to the Mountains.

COMING AND GOING OF VARIOUS PEOPLE.

FRUITVALE, June 21.—An attempt is being made by those at the head of the Congregational chapel of this place to organize a boys' choir. A sign has been placed on the chapel, which reads "Boys Wanted." Ten or twelve boys with good voices will be trained and it is thought by those in charge that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the required number within a short time. The choir will be quite an interesting feature of the church.

Keep Your Insides Cool!

Here's a man who thinks he has heart disease, and is scared half to death. His face is all drawn out of shape from fear and agony. Every time he eats, his heart "palpitates"—that simply means that his stomach is swelled up with gases from fermenting undigested food, and his heart thumps against his diaphragm. Nothing the matter with his heart. In the summer time, this gas distention is much worse, his whole body and blood get over-heated, and his heart and lungs get so crowded for room, that he gasps for breath. There he is, look at him! Every minute he expects to drop dead. As a matter of fact, all he needs is to stop that souring and gas forming in his stomach and bowels, help his digestion along, and keep cool inside. You all know that whenever something rots or decays, heat develops. Same in the body. Keep cool inside! Take a candy cathartic CASCARET every night at bed-time. It will work while you sleep, clean up and cool your insides, give you a regular, comfortable movement in the morning, and you'll be feeling fine all day every day. Heart Disease! Fudge!

CLEVELAND STARTS A ROW.

The Tilden dinner has undoubtedly stirred the Democracy. Mr. Cleveland's speech has certainly prompted a fierce desire among Democrats to get together, but not for harmony purposes. Old Captain Patrick was right when he said the Democratic party was a fighting party, and the appearance of Cleveland and Hill harmonizing with each other while Bryan of Nebraska, Jones of Arkansas, and Jim Hogg of Texas were left to harmonize by themselves way out in the Woolly West, has worked up the fighting blood of the grand old party to the boiling pitch. True it is only a family quarrel, but the ruction is none the less picturesque and exciting for all that.

It shows what a happy and harmonious family the Democratic party is. Marso Henry Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal has been energetically telling Bryan to go way back and sit down, and urging the Democracy to get together, but the sight of Cleveland fires his Southern blood like a spark to a powder magazine. He calls Cleveland "a death's head at a feast," and without using Dana's expressive phrase outright, calls the ponderous ex-President a "stuffed prophet of tariff reform." Here is the way the great Kentucky editor thrusts his slang-whanger at Queen Kapiolani's fat friend:

"It seems a kind of irony of fate that it should be a Tilden Club to welcome Mr. Cleveland's baneful re-entry into political activities. Mr. Tilden died with words of scorn and contempt upon his lips for Grover Cleveland. He understood perfectly the coarse texture of Mr. Cleveland's physical and mental make-up; his obtuse selfishness; his ignorant obstinacy; his vulgar self-assertion; his indefatigable duplicity."

Way off in Nebraska, Farmer Bryan leaves off laying long enough to say this:

"Hill and Cleveland are to attend a harmony meeting in New York. Why should it seem necessary to harmonize Mr. Hill and Mr. Cleveland? They have always been in harmony whenever the interests of Wall street demanded harmony. Why should Cleveland be invited to a Democratic meeting? Until he expresses his intention to return to the Democratic party there is no reason why he should be invited to speak before Democrats."

Mayor Tom Johnson of Cleveland, who repudiates both free silver and tariff reform, but personally likes both Cleveland and Bryan, gives this explanation of his failure to attend the banquet:

"Well, I didn't think I would get much comfort or enlightenment, and after I read the accounts of the affair, I am not sorry that I stayed away."

Taking these expressions as representing the spirit of the party, the police would have to be called in to quell the riot if the Democrats should give another harmony dinner.

QUAY'S LAST TRICK.

Matt Quay's last trick in Pennsylvania was probably the cutest political maneuver he ever played in all his long and varied career in politics. He had aroused a portentous opposition, which was determined to beat Quay's friend, Senator Penrose, for re-election. It was necessary that this opposition should be either misled or placated. Quay decided on doing both, and the success of the experiment exhibits one of the shrewdest and quickest turns ever made in politics. He first got the opposition committed to the proposition that Attorney General Elkin was his candidate for Governor by having his lieutenants ostentatiously espouse Elkin's candidacy. While the "reform" press was ringing with denunciation of Elkin and Quayism, he quietly had less conspicuous political friends bring out Judge Penypacker, who has an enviable reputation as a great jurist in the Keystone State. The reformers bit at him like a catfish at a piece of liver. On the eve of the primaries, Quay came out for Penypacker and took charge of his fight. Thus the reformers found themselves following Quay. In the meantime the legislative nominations had been fixed to insure the re-election of Penrose. The reformers having exhausted their ammunition firing at a decoy duck, now find themselves in the toils of Quayism. The veteran boss has been too shrewd for his enemies; he has induced them to win what will probably be his last fight.

It is rumored that young Reginald Vanderbilt will not receive a diploma at the close of his term at Yale. What does he care for diplomas when he has a hundred million dollars? If he were not a multi-millionaire, however, nobody but his relatives and immediate friends would be concerned about his failure to receive a degree. Yale University ought to be indicted for lese majeste in refusing to give a sheepskin to a man with so much money. Are millionaires to be flouted in this way by beggarly college pedants without a railroad to their name?

The voracious correspondent who represented Senator Hanna as committing political suicide on the grave of the Panama Canal, will take notice that Panama is not in the grave and that Senator Hanna is not dead, but victorious.

A UNIQUE SUCCESS.

While the Elks' Fair has been a surprising and gratifying success, it is notable in another respect, which gives it an added claim to public favor. Its freedom from disorder or unseemly displays is truly remarkable. No other street fair ever held in the State can be compared to this one in the matter of decorum and freedom from objectionable features. Financially it is the most successful street fair held in California, and its pre-eminence in the matter of order, sobriety and mood behavior is, under the circumstances, something the community has a right to be proud of. The absence of drinking is conspicuous. The saloons of the city, instead of doing an unusually large business, have done far less business than they ordinarily do. Yet no intoxicating liquor is sold on the fair grounds. There are no exhibitions of rowdiness, boisterous behavior and no public profanity. This is a credit to San Francisco as well as Oakland, for the visitors from across the bay run into the thousands daily. It can also be truthfully said that there have been very few cases of robbery or pocket-picking. While the police have been vigilant, the superior personal character of the visitors, generally speaking, discourages the thievish operations of the criminal gangs that usually follow fairs. The only robbery of note thus far reported is the picking of a drunken man's pocket in a downtown saloon. When people are not drinking or seeking gambling games and other questionable amusements, they are not likely to be robbed or humbugged. Oakland has achieved the distinction of holding the cleanest as well as the most successful street fair ever held in the State, and the Elks are therefore to be both complimented and congratulated.

STUDENT MILLER'S CASE.

The refusal of the faculty of the State Normal School at San Jose to grant a pupil a diploma on the ground that his "mental peculiarities unfit him to be a teacher" presents a rather delicate question. Perhaps the faculty may be wrong. If so, what redress does the student have? He is denied all opportunity to prove his capacity. He cannot be a teacher in this State because the faculty of the San Jose School disapprove his "mental peculiarities," but not his scholarship. Two years ago, Henry E. Miller, the student in question, was denied a diploma, as he said, because the faculty were prejudiced against him. It appears that he had criticized them rather freely. Subsequently he compelled the faculty to enroll him again by a court mandate, and since then has criticized them sharply in the public prints. Naturally he has earned their dislike. Perhaps the faculty may be right in their estimate of Miller, but are they justified in refusing a diploma if his scholarship warrants it? His fitness as a teacher will govern his employment as such. Is it not barely possible that the faculty are stretching their authority and responsibility a point, and are actuated in so doing more by personal feeling than they would care to admit?

It is the custom among the Indians to kill their unsuccessful medicine men. An Alaska Indian got disgusted with the failure of his doctor to cure his malady and slew the man of medicine. Nevertheless the patient died. Two things are thus proved. First, the death penalty does not abolish quackery. Second, the killing of quacks does not abolish death. It follows that killing quacks to prevent quackery is a quack remedy. This suggests that if quacks should really be put to death, they should be killed homeopathically—by being made to take their own pills.

DR. HAMLIN IS AGAIN PRESIDENT.

The Board of Health held a short session last night, with Doctors Hamlin, Kitchings and Shinnick present. Dr. O. B. Hamlin was unanimously re-elected to the Presidency of the Board. Hugh Fletcher was selected to fill the position of janitor, vice Mrs. Gibbs, resigned.

The regular monthly reports from the several departments were read and placed on file.

It was reported that the number of deaths occurring in the city of Oakland during the month of May were fifty-four. The total number of births for the month of May was seventy-two.

Contagious and infectious diseases reported for the month of May were as follows: Diphtheria, including membranous croup, 5; scarlet fever, 16; typhoid fever, 1; malarial fever, 0; smallpox, 4. After the adoption of the reports the board adjourned.

TOWN TALK.

The full history of Walter G. Smith's checkered journalistic career is told in a page of paragraphs in today's Town Talk. There is much other good reading, paragraphs about Bowie's ocean voyage, celebrities in society, the Loughboroughs and other girls who don't marry; gallant army men promoted; a court scandal promised; De Vries and McLaurin compared, etc., etc. The editorials are all on timely topics, and there is a strong financial page. E. J. Moyan's Romeo is criticized. There is a pathetic story, and pages of bright miscellany.

ALAMEDA FIREMEN ARE KEPT BUSY WITH ALARMS

School Board Makes a Number of Changes—Death of an Old Resident—News Notes.

ALAMEDA, June 21.—The grass fire season is now open and the local fire department is kept busy handling these fires, which in some instances prove quite serious.

Yesterday the department was called out three times and each time saved property from serious damage. The first alarm was turned in from Park and Encinal avenues.

A vacant lot at that point was burned clean of the long grass with which it was covered. At Clinton avenue and Chestnut a grass fire, which is supposed to have been started by small boys, destroyed several yards of fence.

Another fire which started on a lot on Grove street, between Encinal avenue and Van Buren street, came near destroying two vacant houses located on either side of the lot. The houses were saved, but several yards of the fence was burned. The fire was also supposed to have been started by small boys.

THIEVES ROB A STORE ON THE EDGE OF THE ENCINAL.

ALAMEDA, June 21.—H. A. Hebbard's store at the Alameda end of the Park street bridge was broken into recently and a quantity of candy, gum and soda water stolen. This is the second time the store has been looted and Hebbard is of the opinion that it is the work of a gang of young hoodlums that reside in the Twenty-third avenue district. As Hebbard's store is located just outside the city limits, on government property, it is not within the jurisdiction of the local police.

JAMES M'MEEKAN DIES AT AN HOSPITAL IN ALAMEDA.

ALAMEDA, June 21.—James M'Meehan, an old resident of this city, died yesterday at the Alameda Sanatorium at the age of 55 years. He was a native of Scotland and had resided

AN ARTISTIC BANK SOUVENIR.

OAKLAND BANK OF SAVINGS ISSUES A HANDSOMELY ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET.

The Oakland Bank of Savings has issued a handsomely illustrated souvenir pamphlet, setting forth its resources and liabilities and its facilities for accommodating patrons. At the beginning of the year the bank held deposits to the amount of $7,809,429.71, and a reserve fund of $174,612.44. Its loans on real estate aggregate nearly $5,000,000, and it holds United States bonds to the value of $2,350,960. In addition to its savings and loan business, the bank does a general commercial business and issues letters of credit all over the world. It has, also, fine modern safe deposit vaults.

The pamphlet is filled with artistic illustrations, showing the banking rooms, safe deposit vaults and the bank's parlors. There are twelve of these engravings, all made from photographs taken by James Y. Eccleston, one of the bank's clerks, who is an amateur photographer of great skill. His work in the Souvenir pamphlet is especially clever, the views being taken with a keen eye to artistic effects. His photos show that the Oakland Bank of Savings has a remarkable handsome interior.

MORE PROPERTY FOR THE SYNDICATE

H. MacKinnon, the well known real estate man, today filed of record two deeds to property in the northern part of the city. The instruments are made out to George Sterling, who represents the Realty Syndicate. One is for a lot 51 feet by 100 near Union and Thirtieth streets in block 662 and the other is for a lot 123x139 feet near Ada and Hopkins street in Peralta Park, South Annex. The consideration in each instance was the nominal one of $10.

AMENDED COMPLAINT IN A DAMAGE CASE.

In the case of Frederick Bowler vs. the Fountain Oil Co., an amended answer was filed today, as also, a counter claim. The plaintiff sues to recover $2,000 for failure of the defendant to properly sink an oil well on the O'Brien ranch in San Mateo county. The counter claim is for $1,500 for alleged injury to property of defendant by the plaintiff.

FILE A HOMESTEAD.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bon placed on record a declaration of homestead covering the residence which they occupy on Telegraph avenue near Thirty-seventh street. The ground included in the homestead has a frontage of 157 and a depth of 150 feet. The property is valued at $5,000.

GROCERS WILL MEET.

The regular meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association will be held on Monday, June 23d, 1902, at 8 o'clock p. m. in room 220, Central Bank Building, Fourteenth and Broadway.

In Alameda for the past fourteen years. Deceased leaves a wife, Elizabeth, and daughter, who reside at the family home 2622 Central avenue.

Owing to the precarious condition of Mrs. M'Meehan's health, she will not be informed of her husband's death. The deceased was at one time a teacher in the local school department.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN THE ALAMEDA SCHOOLS.

ALAMEDA, June 21.—The Board of Education held a special meeting to receive the report of the Classification Committee assigning teachers to their positions in the schools for the coming school year. The assignments were as follows:

CERTIFICATES FOR TEACHERS.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION HELD A MEETING THIS MORNING.

At the meeting of the County Board of Education today there was an animated discussion over the request of Mrs. Florence Jackson, a special teacher in drawing in the Laurel District, to have the Board give another examination to the papers for May work which were sent up to the Board.

The request was based upon the fact as alleged, that the marking of the papers was not as high as it should have been and that an injustice had been done both to pupil and teacher.

The papers in question were passed upon in a special manner by Director Ingler and his marking was submitted to the Board. Director Ingler even made a second report on them, which was in effect the same as the first. Neither report had been acted on by the Board.

Mr. Ingler said today that he preferred the report which he made first. He did not like the idea of going again over papers when he was confident that they had been marked as carefully and as correctly as they should have been. At the same time, however, he said he would be willing, for the last time, to make another report on the work.

Superintendent Crawford said that he would be willing, if Director Ingler preferred his first report, to vote in support of that report.

All the other directors expressed dissatisfaction with the idea of going a second time over papers which had received their careful attention to which they were entitled.

The Board granted certificates as follows:

High School—Mrs. H. Fish, Mary Lemon, Leon Martin, Edith Rennie, Grammar Grade—Mary Jewett, Veda Verralla, Mary Morrison, Anna Kress, Amy Furlong.

Permanent Grammar Grade—Mrs. C. T. Elliott, Effie Trimmingham, Charlotte Trimmingham, Gertrude Hubbard.

Permanent Primary Grade—Emily Miller Newcome.

Renewals Grammar Grade—S. V. Larue, Phoebe Lowrie, M. L. Whelan, C. E. Reed, Mrs. Fannie Beck.

Special High School in Drawing—Grace Dawson.

Recommended for High School Life Insurance—Mrs. Mary Dickson, G. S. Dickson, Mrs. C. T. Elliott, Miss Carrie Parish.

GRAY WANTS BONDS FOR SCHOOLHOUSES

At a "round table talk" of the Pilgrim Brotherhood of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, in East Oakland last night Giles H. Gray made a strong plea in favor of issuing bonds to the extent of $400,000 to erect new school buildings and provide better facilities for the educational department. The subject of the evening's discussion was "Primary Elections." Among the speakers were Councilman Wallace and Edgar Pomeroy, who argued in favor of a municipal water plant.

HAD A FIERCE BATTLE WITH A MADMAN.

Deputy Sheriff Striker Had to Fight For His Life.

INSANE PRISONER KICKED HIM HARD.

While Deputy Sheriff John Striker was taking August R. Richardson, an insane man, to the insane asylum at Stockton, the prisoner was attacked with a violent fit of madness.

At Sixteenth street station he suddenly put his head through a window and kicked out another pane of glass. Striker attempted to subdue him, and in the fierce struggle that ensued, Richardson kicked over two seats.

The passengers hurried out of the cars and left the two struggling men alone. Finally Striker succeeded in placing the handcuffs on the prisoner and left them on until Richardson was turned over to the authorities at Stockton.

BACK AGAIN IN COUNTY JAIL.

AN INDUSTRIOUS THIEF WILL NOW HAVE TO ANSWER BEFORE THE COURT.

Joseph Turner, a crafty young bicycle thief, who sought to escape confinement in the County Jail upon conviction of his offense by going to sea and leading an industrious and honest life, is back again in the County Jail, and will be committed to Whittier by Judge Melvin Wednesday next.

Three weeks ago the court allowed Turner to try to find a shipper who would allow him to join his crew, but the lad was unable to impress any sailing master with the fact that he had in him the making of an able seaman. The court announced yesterday that he would extend Turner's time to ship for another week, and if at the expiration of that time the lad did not find a willing captain the boy would be brought back and sent to Whittier.

Attorney Peterson had offered to see that the boy lived up to the orders of the court. He knew, however, that Turner could not get a ship, and furthermore that he would disappear at the expiration of the limit set by the court.

He accordingly went to San Francisco today and brought Turner back and surrendered him to the court, and with him the responsibility he had assumed in the premises.

CLAIMS INJURY FOR LIFE.

YOUNG GIRL SUES RAILROAD COMPANY FOR HEAVY DAMAGES.

Gertrude Johnson, aged 16 years, has brought a suit against the S. P. R. R. Company to secure $25,318.50 for damages alleged to have been sustained by her by being thrown from a train of the company by the sudden starting of the same while plaintiff was descending the steps of the rear platform.

The petition alleges that as a consequence of the accident the skull was fractured and that a large section of it had to be removed, that she had to be tended in a hospital for several weeks, expending for medical and surgical attendance $155.50 and that she has been disabled for life.

Charles Johnson has been appointed guardian ad litem for the petitioner for the bringing of the suit.

Come early or you cannot see her. Alice, Midway, Elks' Carnival.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES MEET.

The Board of Trustees of the Oakland Free Library held a short meeting last night at which George Evans submitted an outline of the program for the dedication of the new library building.

After several small bills against the new building were approved and allowed, the Trustees adjourned.

A DOUBTFUL COMPLAINT.

Mistress—Now, Jane, there is no use of further argument as to how this dish should be prepared, but our ideas on the subject are so different that it is evident one or the other of us is crazy.

Jane—True for you, ma'am, an' it's not the likes of me as would be after sayin' the likes of you would have no more sense than to keep a crazy cook.

106 Telegraph ave., one block west of new Postoffice. Fresh delicacies daily, including roasted meats, soup, salads, meat pies and home-made pies. In fact, everything that goes to make a delicious meal can be found here. No place in Oakland where more homelike and clean cooking can be found. A visit to the Siegler Delicatessen Store will convince you of this fact. Branch of Cape Ann Bakery.

A FLOOD TIDE!

An exceptional opportunity to purchase a good Piano on easy terms.

A number of Pianos that have been used at the Elks' Carnival to be sold very cheaply.

The old-established house of Kohler & Chase again demonstrated their progressiveness at the Elks' Carnival and Street Fair during the past week. It was the only piano house which had a piano exhibit; in fact, the only house which had a piano or organ on the grounds. Every side show and booth requiring a musical instrument came to Kohler & Chase for it. Including the four instruments in their own booth they had sixteen (16) on the grounds. See where they were—

All these instruments will be returned to our store and will be put on sale at noon Monday—and not one of them will be sold before that hour. Of course, they are not new, for even a brand new piano (such as many of the above were,) would become second-hand by use and exposure as these have been. Every instrument will be sold very cheaply, and on easy terms ($6.00 per month, if you want.)

The above lot of instruments, added to what remains unsold of the shopworn stock heretofore advertised, offers the greatest piano purchasing opportunity ever offered anywhere. Every instrument is fully warranted for five years and is kept in repair for twelve months free of charge.

Then, too, we will at any time within three years accept any of these instruments in part payment of a new piano, and allow full amount paid.

If you contemplate the purchase of any instrument in the near future, better take advantage of this opportunity. It takes only a small amount of money—but if you cannot spare the money now come in and pick out your piano or organ and we will hold it for you for any reasonable length of time.

Sale Commences at Noon Monday

Be prompt if you want the choice of the lot.

WHO CONSECRATED SCHOOL MARMS TO SPINSTERHOOD?

Why Are Women School Teachers Discriminated Against?—How Matrimony Draws the Line Between Sewing and Singing.

BY BETTY MARTIN.

School teachers are a much-to-be-lamented class of people. They are hedged in with more rules and regulations than any other men and women in public employ, and small wonder it is that they become narrow-minded, petty and tyrannical as the years roll by.

In this supposedly intelligent community, the school board frowns upon the marriage of female teachers, and a long time back made the act a crime punishable with dismissal from the department. It has been more than hinted that male teachers were back of this unjustly discriminating plan to force women into accepting such an alternative, so that they themselves might mount the chair of learning. A wonder it is that women don't rise in a body to protest against such injustice, instead of meekly assenting to this decree.

Every healthy-minded woman wants a home of her own, with some one to share it, and rich men aren't lying around very plentiful, waiting to be gathered into the matrimonial net; neither do they often fall victims to school-marms.

Beauty and brains are a rather unusual combination, and ladies with pedagogic tendencies are commonly supposed to possess a preponderance of the latter rather than the former. The man who sets his affections upon one of them, therefore, is usually attracted by some other quality than mere outward show, and he is not likely, either, to be possessed of more than a small share of earthly goods. Now, just exactly why two such people should be forbidden to join forces and work their way upward along the line of prosperity is a problem, the solving of which appears to lie solely in the hands of a few self-constituted judges, who are, apparently, not at one with Judge Hall in his opinion that women may with equal propriety assist their husbands as bread-winners, and if needs be, lead in matters pertaining thereto, even going so far as to support the husband if necessary. Indeed, instances are becoming quite frequent where husbands sue wives for maintenance, and just now there is a suit on in San Francisco where a man has instituted proceedings to recover money which he says had been promised him if he married a certain woman, whom he declares to be many years older than himself, and not strictly to his liking.

Getting back to the subject of teachers, however, the worst blow yet given their liberty of action comes from Berkeley, the accepted seat of learning for all California.

In this town the school trustees would deny members of the department the right to study out of school hours, on the ground that it incapacitates them from doing justice to their pupils. What kind of fossilized beings would they have teachers become? In order to progress they must necessarily study or else fall behind in the march of progress, in which case they are not proper instructors for the young, and therefore should be laid on the shelf.

Coming home, the no-marriage law forces teachers to one of three alternatives, one of which is not mentionable in polite society, and therefore not to be considered, even under the rose, but promptly dismissed from all minds. Of the remaining two, the first is abandonment of the profession they have spent years in learning, and the second is to remain a teacher and mortify the spirit, and incidentally, the flesh also, after the manner of St. Anthony.

Members of Boards of Education should be selected with some little regard to the amount of common sense and sense-justice possessed by them.

From school teachers and trustees to school houses is but a stone's throw, and regarding the latter there is a brisk movement on foot in the East, which is meeting with general approval.

Clergymen and philanthropists are unanimously in favor of the throwing open, on Sundays, of school-rooms for the use of the general public. In them, so say the partisans of this movement, lectures and sermons can be given and concerts as well. In fact, anything for the mental enlargement of the people who would frequent them.

Isn't the idea in line with the progressive spirit manifest in Oakland just now?

Some celebrated writer, I've forgotten his name, says that literary inspiration can be gotten from even so small a thing as a doughnut. Accepting his point of view, I tried my powers upon one the other day. Preparatory thereto I asked the baker for ten cents' worth of fresh doughnuts. He gave me a whole dozen, and I gazed at them admiringly, thinking of the forthcoming inspiration. I tipped one around them, and finally picked out one whereon to concentrate my attention. It was a large, fat affair, elaborately covered with granulated sugar and grease—the latter predominating. I laid it out on a pretty plate, and gazed at it. But the story came not. All my vision conjured up was a kitchen range, whereon sizzled a pan of hot lard. Bending over the pan was a man, big, fat and like the doughnuts, rather greasy looking. With a long fork he was turning out dozens upon dozens of big, corpulent looking doughnuts, puffed up almost to the point of bursting—each a counterpart of the one before me. Then suddenly another man, much resembling the cook, entered and bore the entire lot of "sinkers" off to a coffee house close by.

where they were eaten by a lot of gross looking individuals.

Thus can be summed up my doughnut inspiration, which bears a moral much like the life of man, in that it is called into the world, exposed to public view for a short period of time and then gobbled up.

All this happened before I visited Fabiola Booth of the Fair. No such commonplace ideas could ever spring up in association with the doughnuts cooked there. Instead would come visions of fair dames and bright-eyed belles passing over the counter, for a consideration in the cause of charity, such melting dreams in the way of doughnuts that one could naught but conjure up brightest dreams after eating one.

If Oakland is having the prophesied visitation of thieves during the Carnival, they must be an unusually self-denying lot, for they've done nothing very daring as yet—not one of them has, so far as known, made even so much as a grab at a lady's watch, and ladies' watches are displayed by the hundreds with a lavish disregard to their safety. Why it is women can't put their away more securely is a queer thing. They tuck them lightly into ribbon belts, let them dangle from flimsy chains, and pin them in place with all sorts of insecure devices. How a thief, who is such by nature, can withstand such temptation is one of the things to find out.

The Man and a dainty-looking girl were sitting off in a secluded corner of a pretty booth at the Fair, chatting and comparing notes, when suddenly the Man's voice was raised unconsciously and upon the breeze came the words: "That's the true philosophy of life."

"What's the true philosophy of life," broke in a brown-eyed woman standing nearby. "I've been trying to find out the true philosophy of life for a long time, and haven't got to it yet. Do tell me what it is?"

The Man raised his eye-brows a little at the interruption, then gave a short quick laugh and answered: "Well, a man has to have a sparkling glass and all that goes with it before he can tell you about the true philosophy of life."

The brown-eyed one shrugged her shoulders and made answer rather ambiguously. "A glass of wine—oh yes—I know—my husband's full of the thing, only last Sunday he was quibbling about a loaf of bread, a jug of wine, and 'Thou'—together with all the rest of it, you know," with a rapid comprehensive glance at the Man—"there are spreading boughs and all that sort of thing thrown in."

"Yes, I know," replied The Man, simply.

"But you, not pop-corn—only five cents a bag!" broke in the speaker from across the way, and a fat woman from the country made the discovery just then that the plants and flowers were for sale. She crooked her finger at the brown-eyed woman, who came obedient to the call.

"Yes, oh yes, the flowers are for sale."

"Hawaiians? Oh, no. Native Daughters?"

"Aloha? Yes, it is a little odd for us, but appropriate. You know it means—"

"Yes, ma'am, meekly—'delivered to any address free of charge.'"

"Boquets, gentlemen, now's your chance—only ten cents," voiced the pretty girl in blue.

"But say," called out the pert one across the way, in the lull that followed the pinning on of a great big carnation. "A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and 'Thou'—any 'thou'—would never do for me—I'd want a little money to smooth the rugged pathway."

"Well," drawled The Man, "maybe you're in the right. Did you read about the Eastern college professor who commenced his speech the other night with that quotation, and told his audience to observe that 'Thou' wasn't waving or engaged in any of the numerous occupations commonly supposed to belong to the functions of a well regulated home, but was simply reposing beneath the bough and singing. There's a vast difference, you know, between singing and sewing. When a man's out for fun, he wants singing, but when the buttons come off his trousers he wants sewing, and there's no dawdling under trees with a jug of wine while it's being done. In some degree the two pictures represent before and after taking the wedding sacrament."

THE HORSE HURT ITSELF IN FALLING.

James McNutt, a horse trainer, for cruelty to animals, was acquitted in the Police Court.

Fannie Prather, a 13-year old school girl, testified that she saw McNutt beating the horse until the blood ran, but the defendant introduced witnesses who swore that the animal had fallen and cut himself, and that the blood was not caused by whipping.

ALAMEDA MAN STABBED IN THE DARK.

W. M. Hadley Is Found In a Ditch Near Downey.

MAY HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF ROBBERS.

DOWNEY, June 21.—Stabbed in a half dozen places, a strange man was found in a weed-grown ditch three miles west of this place at 9:30 o'clock last night. He is supposed to be W. M. Hadley of Alameda, and he is probably fatally wounded. While all indications point to foul play, there is nothing to work upon until the victim regains consciousness. The officers have made no arrests.

The wounded man was discovered by Hamp Wyatt, a rancher, who was driving along beside the narrow gauge railroad track and saw a bat lying by the roadside. The place was cut in many places, the most serious wounds being two deep stabs in the abdomen and one in the left arm. Should he die without regaining consciousness Downey will have another murder mystery to solve.

Identification of the wounded man is obtained through two letters of recommendation found in his vest pocket note book. They are made out for W. M. Hadley and are signed by H. P. Moreau, a commission merchant, and W. O. Smith, both of Alameda. One of the letters was written by Arthur P. Buckner, care of Long & Co., Los Angeles. The man is fairly well dressed and about 30 years of age.

The injured man is a brother of Officer Ed Hadley of this city. He lived here for some time, but left last Christmas, and his brother had not heard from him until the report of the supposed attempt at murder. When in Alameda Hadley worked for H. P. Moreau and Dr. W. O. Smith, and provided medical attention. The police of Downey have commenced an active investigation of the strange case.

NEW BUILDING FOR THE U. C.

Work on the Mining Building Will Soon Be in Progress at Berkeley

BERKELEY, June 21.—Work upon laying the foundations of the new Mining Building will begin next week. A force of thirty men is at work at the site, and the excavation has now been made to the bottom of the basement floor.

In the office a force of twelve men are at work preparing plans and specifications.

Work upon the additions to the new Library Building will begin in the course of a couple of days. The addition will make shelf room for 50,000 more volumes than are at present contained in the library.

THE Y. M. C. A.

BERKELEY, June 21.—The first edition of the Students Hand Book, published by the Young Men's Christian Association, is expected to be received from the printer's hand today.

The book will be distributed freely to the students of the summer school, and of the regular University session. The book contains all the facts of information needed by incoming students, and is an invaluable guide to new students. Fred J. Goodsell edited the book, and J. G. White was its business manager.

BACK FROM THE EAST.

BERKELEY, June 21.—C. C. Esterly, a prominent resident of Berkeley, accompanied by his son, returned yesterday from a month's trip in the East. Their itinerary included Chicago, New York, Boston, and all the cities of importance in the East. The son will leave shortly for San Pedro where he goes to pursue original investigations in the San Pablo Summer School.

DEATH OF A PIONEER.

BERKELEY, June 21.—Philip Henry McGovern, a native of Ireland, died yesterday at his residence at 224 Ward street at the advanced age of 83 years. He had been a resident of Berkeley for the last five years, and of California for fifty-two years. He was a retired merchant, and had been very prominent in the business circles of San Francisco.

CALIFORNIA LADIES' MAGAZINE FOR JULY

The July number of the California Ladies' Magazine is just fresh from the press of the Tribune Publishing Company as gay and bright as a June rose. Indeed, the artistic of Mrs. Lovell White, President of the Women's Press Club, which embellishes the title page is framed in a mass of scarlet rosebuds.

This number is especially rich in illustration, much of it local to Oakland and its immediate vicinity. In literary quality the contents are fully up to the standard of the Ladies' Home Journal, although its flavor is local to California. An article entitled "Some Beautiful Homes of Alameda County" opens with a poem by Joaquin Miller, who enlarges upon the beauty of the neighborhood and is pictorially represented. In all respects the July number is highly creditable. The California Ladies' Magazine is published in Oakland by the California Ladies' Publishing Company. It just entered upon its third volume. Price 10 cents.

WISER MERCHANT

HOW HE EXTRICATED HIMSELF FROM A SERIOUS DIFFICULTY.

Mr. Outcalt Tells an Interesting Story About a Recent Important Event in His Life.

How George W. Outcalt, a well known merchant of Wallston, Oklahoma, recently succeeded in extricating himself from a serious difficulty is one of the interesting stories now going the rounds of the papers.

"I had been working very hard," he says in telling the story. "For a long time I had given almost every moment of my attention to my business and I did not notice what effect this was having on me. But, finally, I saw that my health was giving way—I was getting thin, was always tired and easily out of breath; my blood was poor, my stomach bad. Every now and then I would be dizzy and any little exertion would exhaust me completely. In short, I was all run down."

"Then one day I saw an advertisement which led me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They acted like magic. I felt better in a few days. My flesh came back till I regained my normal weight, my appetite returned and my general health is now better than it has been for many years. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many of my friends and am glad of this opportunity to tell what the remedy has done for me."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People did for Mr. Outcalt they will do for others similarly afflicted. They are different from ordinary medicine because they act directly on the blood and nerves. They are used with almost miraculous results in the most obstinate nervous and blood diseases. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents a box; six boxes, two dollars and fifty cents, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Be sure to get the genuine; substitutes never cured anybody.

DANDY FIFTH GOES INTO CAMP AT UKIAH.

Commands in This County Leave For Scene Tonight.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION FOR EIGHT DAYS.

The several companies of the Fifth Regiment, N. G. C., will encamp for eight days at Ukiah, beginning this evening.

The regiment is composed of nine companies, viz: A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, and I.

Companies A and P of this city together with the regimental band and the Sanitary Corps and Company G of Alameda will leave on the 6:15 train this evening and join the other companies of the regiment in San Francisco and then take a special train for Ukiah.

The camp will be known as Camp Foster.

Colonel A. K. Whitton of San Jose will be in command. The officers of the regiment are: Major C. T. Poulter, Second Battalion; Major J. P. Dunn, Sanitary Corps; Captain R. E. Williams, Sanitary Corps; Captain W. W. Simpson, Commissary; Lieutenant E. H. Pierce, Quartermaster.

Company I of Livermore will leave that place at 5:16 o'clock this evening and report at Ukiah in time to take the train for Ukiah in the morning.

The regiment will travel in heavy marching order, save that no shelter tent or carriages will be carried. Overcoats will be packed and shipped as baggage.

Privates Charles H. Lancaster and James DePoy of Company A, have been appointed corporals.

The regiment will travel in heavy marching order, save that no shelter tent or carriages will be carried. Overcoats will be packed and shipped as baggage.

Mr. Middleton (at the "amateur athletes" exhibition) said, Bixby, we'd better put a natural foot on first base. He might accidentally catch the ball sometimes.

Mr. Bixby (amiably)—Oh, very well. I'll exchange places with you, sir.—Judge.

COFFEE SENSE.

To Drink, or Not to Drink, is the Question

A prominent St. Paul woman comments on coffee as follows:

"I was drinking coffee I was troubled with sleeplessness and palpitation of the heart. I began to feel suspicious of coffee poison and having no desire to drug myself, realized how inconsistent it was for me to continue the use of anything that helped to break me down, so I quit coffee and began using Postum Coffee."

"Now I sleep well and consequently feel refreshed, and am much strengthened. Palpitation of the heart has ceased and altogether life seems worth living."

"Some of our family like a little coffee mixed in with the Postum; that, of course is much healthier than the old fashioned coffee alone."

It is true that very strong coffee of the best flavor has a more fastidious taste to some palates than pure Postum. On the other hand, there are thousands of people that prefer the flavor of Postum, pure and simple. If coffee agrees perfectly, are you not ill in any way, there seems no good reason why coffee should be discontinued unless there is a fear of disease finally setting up. On the continued use of a drug. On the other hand, if a member of a family is ailing in stomach, bowels, kidneys, eyes, or nervous system, such a one should immediately quit ordinary coffee and take Postum Food Coffee. A sure relief can be depended upon and a gradual feeding of health and strength will come from the change. Health, of course, is worth almost everything on earth.

Some people are so constituted that it is hard for them to give up a habit even if good health is thereby secured. It is perfectly easy to leave off coffee when one can have a well boiled cup of Postum in its place.

ARE EVENLY MATCHED.

Two Men Compose Berkeley Jury—Pioneer Dies at Advanced Age—Social Notes.

BERKELEY, June 21.—The hopes of Stanford have been raised relative to defeating the Blue and Gold athletes when the two colleges engage in a championship field day next year. The State University loses many of its star athletes this year, while Stanford will not suffer any appreciable loss. The ease with which the Blue and Gold has triumphed over the cardinal on track and field in years past stimulates the Stanford athletes to great endeavor in the last field day, but Berkeley carried off the championship with the same consummate ease that marked her triumphs in other years. But now that Berkeley will be weakened by the loss of such star performers as Plaw, Topham, Powell, Redewill, Service and Hussey, the Stanford athletes have taken courage again and the next field day should prove the most hotly contested event on the track and field ever participated in by the two colleges.

The incoming freshmen in both Universities is a factor which cannot be accurately computed, but aside from this the two colleges will line up without a decided advantage on either side.

In the hammer throw, and sprints, the Berkeley team will be nearly as strong as ever. The high and low hurdles will also fall to the Blue and Gold. In the other events Stanford will have about an even break, and in some of the events, notably the half mile, quarter mile and shot put, Stanford will have an advantage.

The athletes on whom California will depend are Cadogan and Abadio in the sprints, Harding in the hammer, Chees in hurdles and high jump, Huberts in the two-mile run, Wilcox in the pole vault, Curley in the high jump, and Edwards, Smith, Johnson in the quarter-mile run and the other events.

It will be hard to replace Plaw, Service, Redewill and Powell and Hussey, although new material may be unexpectedly developed.

CALIFORNIA PIONEER PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY.

BERKELEY, June 21.—Philip Henry McGovern, a pioneer of the State, died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Celia A. White, 224 Ward street, aged 83 years.

The deceased came to California in the pioneer days of 1849. He was for many years engaged in the mercantile business in Calaveras county, but had resided in Berkeley for the last five years. He was a native of Ireland. Three daughters, Mrs. C. A. White, Miss Mary McGovern and sister Mary Vincent, and a son, Thomas McGovern, survive him.

The funeral will be held from his residence on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will take place in St. Mary's Cemetery.

TWO MEN COMPOSE JURY IN BERKELEY COURT.

BERKELEY, June 21.—A novelty in Justice of the Peace Edgar's court existed yesterday in the way of a jury composed of two men, E. P. Luei and Robert Carter, who sat as jurors in the trial of California Bush, charged with battery upon a Chinese.

George F. Bush, father of the defendant, defended his son. The diminutive jury found young Bush not guilty after listening to the evidence.

MEDDLER TELLS OF CARNIVAL AND SOCIETY.

Many Events Are Recorded in Society--- Weddings, Luncheons and Receptions---Summer Outings.

As far as society goes the week has been absolutely dead, the informal little luncheon given by Josephine Pierce on Tuesday looming up as the one really swell affair, while Katherine Harub Griffith's luncheon on Wednesday next is about all we have to look forward to in the social line for the coming week.

Josephine Pierce cares more for traveling than anything else, and of late years has rather given up the go-by, but she and her sister, Mrs. J. H. T. Watkinson, entertain delightfully in their quaint, artistic home on Merrimac street, when they are in the mood for that sort of thing, and like Mrs. Lyle May Hayes, are fond of gathering only a few friends at a time about them. The luncheon table was decorated very simply with pink roses on Tuesday, and those about the board were Mrs. George McNear Jr., Miss Vreeman—who has just returned with her sister from a tour of almost the entire globe—Violet Whitney, Kate Clement, Mrs. Watkinson and the hostess.

Kate was as usual stunning, and wore pale gray crepe, trimmed with bands of cerise lace and a black hat. She is trying to take the rest cure, staying at home, going to bed at 8 o'clock and all that, but isn't succeeding very well, because as soon as the T. H. S. Spectacles write for her away clothes, and her Friday to Monday visits usually lengthen out into weeks. The Joe Tobins have taken the country place next to the Van Ness ranch in the Napa Valley, and with a number of other furlingamies who own places up there, or have leased them, think there is no place like it, and it is certainly a splendid driving country with its hard roads and all that which is what that crowd cares for most.

Dr. and Mrs. Russell Cool have been entertaining a large house party at their home in Los Gatos, "Dotswood." Mrs. Cool is well remembered in Oakland as Miss Una Handy and later as Mrs. Burns. Among other guests the Cool had Mrs. Isobel Strong, daughter of Mr. Robert Louis Stevenson, Mr. Charles K. Field, of Alameda, Mr. Richard M. Hoadley and Dr. and Miss Rosebush. On June 12, Dr. Cool celebrated his birthday with a big birthday party. The house party lasted several days. The Cool place is admirably adapted for entertaining, being large and roomy with a delightful bathing pool as an accessory.

Among the returned Oaklanders over whom society will make much fuss is Mrs. Olive Reed Cushman, of Newark, New Jersey, and her little daughter, Mrs. Cushman is well remembered in Oakland, where her beautiful contralto voice for years delighted all lovers of music. Mrs. Cushman is gifted with a fine soprano voice and she numbers her friends by the score. Mrs. Edwin Griffith, nee Katherine Harub, gives a large luncheon in honor of Mrs. Cushman and there will be many other things planned in her honor. It is hoped that Mrs. Cushman may sing in some of the churches here during the summer, when choir singers and congregations like vacations from the same old voices. Or perhaps there may be a concert when we shall be able to hear Mrs. Cushman again. They say that she has improved greatly in voice and method, but I can scarcely believe that—both seemed so perfect to me before she was away. In the East she has been received with open arms and open ears for she has all the choir and concert work which she can undertake. Mrs. Cushman's business affairs have also prospered in the eastern States, and though they regret leaving their California friends and scenes, the Cushmans have no reason to regret their change of residence. Their little girl was born in the East last year and is making her first visit to her grandfather, her aunts and her uncle.

Miss Vida Goldstein, the well-known Australian woman suffragist was the guest of honor at a large affair given by Mrs. Emma Shafter Howard the other night. Miss Goldstein won golden opinions throughout the Eastern States and was one of the most popular speakers at the late Suffrage Convention, so much so that she had lecture engagements all over the Eastern States. At Mrs. Howard's the other night she spoke informally to people interested in the condition of women in Australia. Miss Goldstein also spoke at the Starr King Fraternity and in Alameda. She has been the guest while in California of Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Speddy in Alameda, and is now the guest of Miss Whelan in East Oakland.

The Elks' Street Fair has been successful beyond the wildest dreams of its organizers. It is a good deal like the Streets of Cairo and the public evidently continues to be interested in that sort of thing. The place is jammed constantly and the money flows in like a silver stream. Fifteen thousand dollars is the mark touched now with two big nights yet to hear from. At that rate it will not take long to make the sum necessary for the building. The concessionaires are always making money, I hear, and many worthy charities are being benefited through the efforts of industrious women. It is like a church fair in that everyone has something for sale. The women of the West Oakland Home look too cute for anything in their modified nurse's garb, with gowns of Quaker gray, made with elbow sleeves and white cuffs turned back, their white kerchiefs and their ruffled white caps. They sell good things to eat and so appeal to all the men. One of their specialties is tamales.

Oakland presents such a gay appearance that one is almost tempted to believe that the place is awake. The street car companies are reaping their share of the profits for every car is jammed and it is nothing unusual to see people sitting on the roofs of the late ones. The streets actually have some people on them after eight o'clock and the electric lights that canopy the streets and outline the City Hall and the dome of the High School are gay against the night. The weather has been charming, which has materially helped out the Elks, though it did not serve to soothe the temper of the disgruntled San Francisco Elks who came over expecting to be made much of and ended by having much made out of them—which is quite a different thing.

I suppose the talk about a hand to meet the visitors and a committee of welcome and speeches and all that was simply a case of "guff" or else a case of talking after dinner through a champagne glass—or is it beer or B. and S. the Elks prefer?—and of course on the night of the parade the hosts were much too busy to extend the glad hand in person. Really, San Francisco should not have expected it, but there are always some sore-heads in every camp.

The other day I heard such an interesting conversation at a tea about the desirability of youthful suitors versus those of middle-aged ones, the theme of course coming up apropos of some recent weddings. One matron argued most nobly and most successfully on the side of the middle-aged lover and as she married a man only two years her senior she probably knows much more about it than most of the women to whom she talked. She didn't put it in words quite so long as these, but this substantially what she said:

The man of forty put up with being shelled a fairly long time. He and the spinster ten years younger than himself for centuries submitted to ostracism from Cupid's camp, even before a single wrinkle on their countenance or a powdering of white over their hair proclaimed the touch of Father Time's inexorable fingers. But there came a day when suddenly all that was changed, and the dignity of years being deemed far more interesting and adorable than the gibbiness of empty-headed juvenility, the hero of ten times four birthdays awoke to find himself famous.

Naturally he then made the most of his opportunities, and very speedily proved that his claims to popularity were deserved. How? By carrying off the belle of his circle from beneath the very eyes of her admirers twenty years or so shorter sojourners in the world than he, and so conspicuously securing her happiness that she became the most envied wife of her coterie of friends and acquaintances.

When the amazing advantages the man in the prime of life possesses are compared with the scanty store that appertains to the callow youth, it is found astonishing indeed that the latter has any chance at all against his rival. If it had not been that generations of malevolent busybodies, to suit their own ends, had likened the middle-aged husband to all that is base and disagreeable, the other man would have found more difficulties in his way than fell to it.

To be sure, there is never smoke without fire; and in the days that men regarded themselves as very perishable articles, warranted to fade away unless treated with the very greatest care after thirty years' sojourn in this vale of woe, a young wife's lot was apt to shape itself into that of a nurse, intent upon lavishing attentions upon her charge which in justice she should.

Does any husband in this enlightened century expect his morning paper to be aired by the fire ere he casts his eye over its spirit-dampening columns? Must the house mistress forswear all her afternoon engagements, in order that she may put her lord and master's slippers to toast before the embers, in time for his weary feet to be thrust in them on his return from business? All that kind of silly pampering is as extinct among up-to-date people as the stodgy leader is in an up-to-date newspaper.

Time, unfortunately, is gauged now precisely as it was then, for the sun is a very conservative old mathematician; so the denizens of the globe over which he presides have hit upon several expedients that enable them to make more of the hours at their disposal than formerly. One of these expedients is the abolition of foolish ceremonies such as the ones just mentioned, and another the dispersing of the ancient shibboleth that a man is as old as his registry of birth proclaims him, instead of as young as his habits and feelings make him.

No girl should believe the old story that, because a man has a face a little less fresh than a cherub's, he is likely to prove a dull life-companion. It is generally supposed that this is so, but then what is generally supposed is not necessarily true. So, though, in no way, the heroine who disposes of her heart to an admirer very much her senior usually poses as a martyr, no one need waste pity on her. She would run just as even a chance of having to spend dull evenings at home were her husband a contemporary of herself in age yet averse to the recreations usually approved among young folk.

Then, too, compare her command of pounds, shillings and pence should she become the wife of a well-established middle-aged suitor on the road to fortune—perhaps already the master of one—with the scanty prospects marriage with a struggling beginner is apt to entail. No true girl would spurn the sweetheart she loved because the future lay untrod before him, and mate herself with one she had no warm feeling for whatever simply because his banking account was a big one; but, grant deep affection plus a competency, surely there are advantages in the combination.

One of the completely charming characteristics the middle-aged lover of the new regime possesses is unselfishness. The young sweetheart, if he be of the fashionable type, is centered in his own identity. It is his wishes his ladylove must consider; hers beside them are of small account. But not so are his courtship days conducted by the rival of more mature years. His desire is to please his fiancée, to make her love him more and more, so to envelop her with kindness and thoughtfulness that she shall learn to depend utterly upon him, and him alone.

Generous indeed, is he, too, when he succeeds in winning the girl he cherishes as the heart-deal of everything that is most lovable in femininity. She has only to express a wish, and he gratifies it, thereby giving himself pleasure as keen as he bestows upon her. He is proud of her—so proud that he enjoys taking her about, and being seen in her company as her affianced husband. His tastes he sinks in order that hers may be gratified. In a word, he is the precise antithesis of the youthful swain, who finds himself so self-sacrificing in becoming engaged at all that he expects ever afterwards to be treated as if he were the wooed one instead of the wooer.

It is noticeable—and not in the least strange—that parents entrust their daughters to suitors far older than their girls with a light heart, when those suitors are men of integrity, and of sound, well-wearing qualities.

I must say that I envy very much the men and women who are going on the Sierra Club's tramp which begins next Monday. I wish that I were sufficiently enterprising physically to go on that trip, but I fear that I'm not. Though the distances that they have mapped out for themselves do not seem great, yet we must remember that the eight, the ten, and the fifteen miles which are set down for the first three days' walk are over the roughest road under a burning sun. But then will come the delicious rest in the cool King's River Canyon country where the permanent camp will be made and from which, as a center, the short tramps and the perilous mountain climbs will be made. One hundred and fifty tramps are going this year and the commissary department and the packing, the cooking, the diswashing and all will be much more comfortably managed than on last year's tramp when the club made its debut in catering on a big scale. As last year, Dr. Vida Redington and Miss Bertha Knox of Oakland will again be of the party.

Personal baggage is limited to fifty pounds for each person which is a good deal when you consider that each tramp, women as well as men, is required to deliver the baggage in its canvas sack at the point where the pack train starts, which means that each tramp must be able to take up his or her bed and walk. Most of the enthusiasts do not take any bed, but sleep on boughs over which is thrown a canvas or rubber blanket, but there must be a pair of blankets taken. They sleep out of doors. The only tents are dressing tents. No provision is made for waiters, but the cooking, diswashing, and packing are done by professionals. Each tramp is provided by the club with dishes and cutlery and each hungry tramp is expected to wait on himself. Buffet breakfasts, luncheons and dinners will be the rule, but there will be no bashfulness in "falling to." There came near being some engagements last year but as one of the men involved was a bachelor of confirmed habits and cautious—heavens how cautious—which my friend of the tea omitted to mention in summing up the case for the middle-aged man, it may take another summer to bring him to the point. We shall have our ears open when the campers return.

Katherine Harub Griffith, who used to give so many delightful luncheons, hasn't entertained much since her marriage. Her affair is to be for her friend Olive Reed Cushman, who is spending three months with her people on Filbert street. She is soprano at one of the leading churches in New Jersey, and she and her husband have found so much success in the East, that they intend living there always. However, as soon as she was granted a leave of absence, she made a bee line (whatever a bee line is, I don't know) for her old home, which shows she still has a soft spot in her heart for us. Those who have been asked to meet Mrs. Cushman are Mrs. George E. De Golia, Mrs. Fred Stolp, Mrs. Shelby Martin, Mrs. W. B. Harub, (Katherine's mother), Mrs. M. S. Oliver (nee Griffith), Mrs. Linda H. Bryan of San Francisco, Mrs. Irving Lewis and Elsie Bennet.

But who cares whether we have had opportunities of wearing our new fountains or not, of late, when we have had a hundred times more fun attending the Fair in short skirts and shirt waists every evening. The Fair was crowded every day, of course, but I saved my strength and shoe leather for the evening, when the hundreds of lights, the different colored electric bulbs in the big oaks, the tall painted posts, gleaming like marble pillars in the night; the throwing of the confetti and all the rest of the affair, was really fascinating (and where on earth all the people came from heaven only knows. We all seemed to have the true Carnival spirit within us. Didn't the Junior George McNears, Clara Tucker Williams, Gus McDonald (the proper Augustus), William Pierce Johnson and myself all climb over the high wall of the Fair grounds by way of a big ladder, because the road leading to the gates was so crowded, we knew we would be forever squeezing out.

But that was just a sample of what everyone was doing and what fun it was sampling the ginger ale at one booth, the real apple cider at another, a new mineral water somewhere else, until we were glad to get into the side-shows to sit down, only one couldn't sit down when we got in, and how every one tried to crawl into himself. I mean herself, at that naughty show called Gay Paree, where some of our stiffest society dames and girls found themselves, afraid to leave the tent and make themselves more conspicuous. They glued their eyes on the ceiling, so that no one could possibly think they were looking at the stage. As long as we were there, I thought I might as well glance out of the tail of my eye and see what it was all about, but all the men stood on their tip toes and stretched their necks and crowded so, that I couldn't see a thing.

All the Chabots came down from Villarelli especially for the Fair, and Mrs. Chabot's puff balls of French doughnuts went off just as quickly as they say hot cakes always do. In the Reliance Circus tent I saw Kate and Dr. Dunn beaming at themselves, the performance and all the world, and with them were Claire Chabot, the one little blonde of the family—and Fred Diekmann. Mrs. Oscar Luning and all the rest of the ladies have been taking turns at presiding over their booths and have worked awfully hard. Mrs. Luning made the record of selling the most doughnuts in one night. She cleared $50. The whole affair is a huge success, so much so that one walks miles without realizing it or getting in the least tired, until one gets outside the gates and back to reality, but even there automobiles are waiting to whisk one home for a modest price, so what's the odds.

While there have been no engagements in which we were especially interested announced this week, the rumors regarding one that hasn't been announced and that the principals declare never will be announced, will not down, and now that the girl has for his sake, again become friendly to his sister, whom she has often declared she particularly dislikes—as do a great many for that matter—the gossip says things are getting serious. He has been devoted for years, even his recent long stay in Europe did not change his love, and although for a time her mother objected to their being together so often, (only on account of the gossip, because he is really an awfully nice fellow), they are now constantly together and everything is well.

She is one of the most charming girls I know, and as far as money goes, will be doing very well, although she has plenty of her own.

His sister was recently married in the East to a man some years younger than herself, but if photographs speak truly, a remarkably handsome fellow of the big, blonde type, and they are devoted to each other.

Some of us had better go rather slow on ping-pong, which is getting to be so serious a thing, that it is credited with having broken the engagement of two prominent Easterners, Miss Mildred Harrison and J. H. Dulles Allen, whose wedding was to have taken place at Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, on Tuesday of this week. The wedding cards were sent out some weeks ago, and the friends of both are inclined to take the ping-pong excuse seriously. It was gravely stated in one of the Philadelphia papers that Mr. Allen, not being a ping-pong enthusiast, did not sympathize with Miss Harrison's devotion to the game, and so rather than give up ping-pong, Miss Harrison decided to let Mr. Allen go.

Young man, take warning and don't above all things present the girl you really are fond of with ping-pong sets!

Across the bay society is daily expecting the announcement of three engagements. That of Edith Huntington, who is Pearl Landers great chum, and Jack Spreckels; that of Berenice Drown, who has been visiting Juliet Garber and who used to come over for Alice Stephenson and Sadie Sinclair Gilde's card parties, before they married—and Sam Boardman, and that of Azalea Keyes to an officer of the Wisconsin.

When saying there had been no interesting engagements announced this week, I forgot that of John A. Reed, an instructor at the University of California, and Miss Lettie Shepard of Stockton. They are to be married very soon, the last of this month, I believe, and will leave directly for Mexico, where Mr. Reed has secured a fine position.

Parties are still being made up for trips to the Yosemite. Today Mrs. Henry Wetherbee leaves with a number of guests. Her sister, Mrs. Susan Parnham, her cousin, Mrs. Samuel Martin, and Bessie Martin. With them went Miss Kip, Lieutenant Kip and Joe Rosborough, and Mrs. Sanborn and Grace and Laura Sanborn will follow them in a day or two.

A jolly party made up of John Clay Hampton, Dr. Ray E. Gilson, Wesley Adams, J. H. King and F. W. Larabee have gone to the Valley and will be joined on the 26th by C. M. Wiggins.

Speaking of the Yosemite reminds me that Thomas Hill's great painting of the Valley, taken from Artists' Point and showing the whole sweep of the Valley, which is valued at five thousand dollars and attracted so much attention at the Pan-American Exposition, has met with a serious mishap. At the close of the exhibition Hill ordered the canvas taken from the stretcher, rolled and sent to the storeroom of the Rabjohn-Kennedy Company. Several days ago a delivery boy in the storeroom was making a box for shipping a small painting, and when finished, thought he could improve on his work and looking around for more material and seeing a long box, concluded that half of it would make just what was needed. He accordingly proceeded to saw it in two and before discovering there was something inside had made light slits in the rolled-up canvas. The accident is particularly sad in the light of Hill's failing health. He has already had three strokes of paralysis, and it is doubtful if he will be strong enough to paint so large a picture again.

The dinner party given by Archibald Young at Honolulu recently for his fiancée, Miss Maud Gillette, must have been an awfully pretty affair, although when we first heard of it the combination of green and yellow for the decorations sounded rather ugly. It took place in a private dining-room of the Hawaiian Hotel, about twenty-five being seated at the long table. Yellow flowers were massed about the room, while from one end of the table to the other were placed tiny electric lights shaded with green. Soft, filmy tulle was draped over the lights, while in the center of the table were coreopsis and maiden hair fern.

Above the table and suspended from the two chandeliers, were baskets of ferns and yellow ribbons wound in and out.

The bride-elect's aunt, Mrs. J. S. McGrew, occupied the seat of honor next to the host, while Miss Gillette and Tarn McGrew sat at the other end of the table.

A little after 6 o'clock the party was driven to Governor Dole's home, where a dance was being given for Cordie Bishop.

The bride-to-be, who is an Eastern girl, has been visiting her aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. McGrew, for some months.

his money very seriously. Most red-headed people regard everything as a joke.

Peter Martin and his devoted mother leave the latter part of June for the East going by the way of Oregon, where Mrs. Martin has large property interests. In New York all sorts of stories of the number and elegance of the wedding presents to be sent on from Peter's California friends are going the rounds, and the gifts will have to be gorgeous, indeed, to come up to the expectations of the people there.

Juliet Fay Blaine and Bartlett Lee Thane will be married next Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. W. A. Huddart, at 2519 Parker street, Berkeley.

All the decorations and the gowns of the bridal party are to be of pink and white—the colors used by every—or almost every bride this season—and after the ceremony, which the Rev. John Bakewell is to perform, there will be a small reception for close friends and relatives.

Augusta Blaine will attend her sister as maid of honor, while Julia Culom and Edith Huddart are to be the bridesmaids. Harry Mosher of Niles and this city will be best man, two chums boys from St. Mark's are to carry the white ribbons and Joe Jarvis and Henry Eaton are to act as ushers.

A wedding in which Oaklanders took a great interest was that of Anne Lawrence Gregory, daughter of the late Silas Gregory, formerly of this city, and Artus Van Briggles, which took place quietly at Colorado Springs on June 12.

The Charles Butters of Piedmont have left for London, where they will join the Henry A. Butters and Mrs. Augustus Bray.

Other Oaklanders to be in that city during the coronation will be Helen Garthwaite and her brother, who have been so long in France and will sail in a few weeks for a visit to their uncle in South Africa.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield Sanborn (nee Frances Baldwin) are rejoicing with them over a little daughter who arrived last week.

Quite a big crowd went down to the depot on Saturday last to say goodbye to the Peter Allens, who, with their little daughter, Frances, and Mrs. Allen's grandmother, Mrs. Mygatt, left for the East, where Mr. Allen has prepared a prettily furnished apartment for them. Peter Allen is making quick strides in the musical world, and everyone wishes him all the luck in the world, although he got a good share of it when Florence consented to be his wife.

And speaking of affairs in the East, how glad we all are to hear of General Long's promotion, both for his sake and for Amy's, who is one of the truest and best girls in the world. By the way, "Highlands" will shortly have the most beautiful gardens any where in this part of the country, and will rival or surpass those of the Marion Smiths, which have so far stood alone. Mr. Requa is employing a large number of workmen and gardeners, who are rapidly making a paradise of the place, not only for the liberal wages they receive, but for love of the owner of "Highlands," who they say treats one and all as a friend.

The ladies of the Oakland Club are very anxious to have several more volunteer teachers for their classes, as they are making plans for some additional studies, and it is an excellent field for some girl weary of society, who wants to assist in a good work. The Vacation School is to be opened at the Tompkins building on Monday and the ladies are planning an interesting season. They have lost Miss McClees, who has had the principalship since the school was inaugurated, but her place will be filled. Besides the kindergarten, physical culture, millinery, sewing and cooking classes, some new features will be added. Informal talks by well-known educators will be given on birds, animals and plant life, and there will be a department for the teaching of carpentry. The volunteer teachers are needed for the kindergarten classes, and the sewing class can always accept another teacher.

Miss Vida Goldstein was the honored guest at a reception given by the Alameda Political Equality Club on Monday evening at Mrs. Thomas H. Speddy's charming home overlooking the bay in the Encinal city. Mrs. C. L. Wood and Miss Blanche Speddy assisted Mrs. Speddy in receiving and there was a musical and literary program during the evening, with numbers by Mrs. Nanette Nahl, who sang "Stew's" "Soupir" and "An Open Secret," by Workman, and Miss Bessie Murray, who recited "L'Envoi," and "Sally Ann's Experiences." When called upon to make a speech, Miss Goldstein said that as it was her party she expected to be entertained, and spoke only for a short time, confining her remarks to her impressions of the suffrage cause in America. On Tuesday Miss Goldstein lectures in San Jose, where she will spend a few days, and will then spend the two or three weeks prior to her departure for her home in Australia with Mrs. E. E. Greenman and Miss Carrie Whelan of Alameda.

The F. Marion Smiths, Marion Smith and Winifred Burdge, Evelyn Ellis and Grace Sperry have been stopping at the Hotel Rowardennan, where Florence Brown and her father and the E. A. Herons have also been spending some days.

Of course the George De Golia's, Mabel Gage, Mrs. Lou Allender, Mrs. Felton Taylor, Mrs. Charles Lovell and Mrs. George Gross are going to spend the Fourth of July holidays at the Geysers, where they always go.

Viva Nicholson has been visiting Anita Lobse in Contra Costa County, and Ethel Kirtledge has been entertaining Florence Starr at Los Gatos, where Bernie Drown and Ella Goodall have also been visiting Mary and Ruth Dunham, who have taken a cottage there.

Among other camping parties is the one of Professor Isaac Flagg of Berkeley, E. W. Linforth, Ivan M. Linforth, William H. Alexander, Harry W. Simonds and William Hackley, they having left for Sanger, from which point they will tramp up the Kaweah river and climb Mt. Whitney.

Amy McKee is in New York with Mr. and Mrs. Orestes Pierce, and I'll wager there isn't a better dressed woman in the city than Amy, who looks like a New York woman anyhow. The wonderful part of it is she makes her own clothes and fashions most of her hats; so it isn't just the clothes; it's the person wearing them that gives the style. I remember thinking how stunning she looked last year at first about this time. It was at the big Fourth of July luncheon at the Golf Club. She was all in white, with her lovely hair braided a la Mrs. Leslie Carter, which is the way she wore it before it became the fashion.

Oakland is breathless over what happened at a tea given here last week by one of the prominent young matrons, so says Paul Pry in today's issue of the Wasp. It seems when the guests resumed their wraps and departed they found that some one had taken their small change from their purses. On comparing notes it was discovered that every tea at the same house had been attended by similar developments. Looking up the record of the hostess still further it was learned that her intimate friends never leave their money where she can get her hands on it. She is a kleptomaniac of the most aggravated type. Some call her mania by a harder name, for recently, when visiting a friend, she said that $20 had been taken from her coat, which hung in the hall. The suspected servants denied all knowledge of the theft and the hostess refunded the $20.

In the light of subsequent occurrences, it is regarded as certain that she picked her own pocket and charged the loss up to the unsuspecting hostess. The social prominence and wealth of the kleptomaniac makes her freak all the more astonishing. I hadn't heard about the $20 before, but it is certainly true that one cannot take money to a tea or card party and leave it in one's purse upstairs. I have heard so often of the things the girls are always losing at affairs of that sort, that I never think of leaving more than a nickel up stairs; just enough to carry me home, and then I take pains to hide it behind a photograph, or under the bed.

Only the other day, one of the San Francisco girls who came over to a card party given by a young bride up on Vernon Heights, found that $10 had been taken from her purse. She said she wouldn't have embarrassed her hostess by mentioning it, only she hadn't a dime to return to town with, and had to borrow it. Of course one can't take the money from one's hostess, who feels mortified if it is refused, and the whole thing is embarrassing all around. Lots of people blame the servants, but I do not, and think if one or two of the real thieves were caught and made known that the whole disgraceful business would stop.

Gertrude Atherton returns to the East today.

The Marcus D. Hydes of Berkeley are giving some delightful Friday te Monday at their summer cottage near Pacific Grove.

Well, I'll say good-bye for this time, Watch out for me in one of the boxes at the Columbia this afternoon, when I'm going to fall in love with Henry Miller all over again. I'm to wear a very French affair of blue and green with a big blue hat, so look out for

THE MEDDLER.

FOR THE BRIDES-ELECT.

Mrs. Hugh Webster gave an informal "at home" recently in honor of Miss Ethel McLintock, Miss Florence Edhoff and Miss Ella Yates, three of Oakland's most interesting brides-elect.

The home of the hostess' mother, Mrs. Reed, on Eighth street, at which the affair was given, was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Reed assisted her daughter in receiving, as did Mrs. William Williamson, Miss Miller, Mrs. Flora McDermott, Miss Madeline Havens and the guests of honor. Mrs. Webster and the three guests in whose honor the at home was given, were beautifully groomed in white. Miss Lillie Moller wore white chiffon, and Miss Flora McDermott a Parisian costume of cream lace.

Among those present at the tea in addition to the hostess and her assistants were: Mrs. Oscar Luning, Mrs. Frank Watson, Mrs. J. W. McElroy, Mrs. Mrs. Churchill Taylor, Mrs. Moller, Miss Gertrude Moller, Miss Breiling and Mrs. E. C. Timmerman.

The wedding of Miss McElroy and Mr. Dudley Kinsell will take place at Trinity Church, some time during the summer months.

ENGAGEMENT OF INTEREST.

A recent engagement of interest is that of Mr. Harry Holcomb and Miss Nyda Walton. Mr. Holcomb is a successful young business man in Oakland, and is secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Miss Walton is the daughter of Mr. H. F. Walton, a prominent rancher in Sonoma county. Miss Walton is at present the guest of Mrs. Boardley near Wellman, in Tasmania. The date of the wedding has not as yet been announced.

OAKLAND GIRL MARRIED.

Miss Anne Gregory, formerly an Oakland girl, was married recently at Colorado Springs to Mr. Arthus Van Briggie. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Silas Gregory, and is a sister of Mrs. F. W. Stratton. The Gregory home in Oakland was located on Alameda street, and is now the Shafter residence.

MISS YOUNG ENTERTAINS.

Miss Bertha Young entertained about twenty of her friends recently at an informal ping-pong party. The affair was given at the Young home, "Rosecroft," and was in honor of Mrs. Joseph Howard, who was Miss Nellie Young, and who has just returned from a long stay in England. The prize was won by Miss Bessie Palmer.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand M. L. Kaehler of Alameda celebrated their golden wedding yesterday. They were married in Hamburg, Germany, on June 20, 1852.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaehler came to America fifteen years ago and have since made their home with their eldest son, Professor Henry E. Kaehler, in this city. Ten children have been born to the couple, five of whom died in their infancy. The other five all reside in Alameda. They are Professor Henry E. Kaehler, the well known musician, Mrs. William E. Schwerin, Mrs. Fred Roehert, Albert L. Kaehler and Mrs. James M. Shandy. All the children resided with their father and mother to this country with the exception of Mrs. Shandy, who accompanied her parents. The four eldest children came to California at different times, but by strange coincidence all settled in Alameda. The five sons and daughters and their children, of which there are ten, were present at the festivities when the reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Kaehler at their son's residence. The happy couple were the recipients of many handsome presents and a number of congratulatory telegrams were received from friends and relatives who reside at a distance. Mr. and Mrs. Kaehler have both reached the age of 70 years and are still hale and hearty. They have been prominent socially and charitably in German circles on this side of the bay ever since they settled here, and are held in high esteem by every one who has had the pleasure of their acquaintance.

GONE FOR THE SUMMER.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Miller, nee Harbman, have closed their Knox street home and have gone to San Francisco for the summer, where they have taken apartments at the Longworth.

MARRIED AT SUNOL.

Last Tuesday Miss Ella I. Cardoza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Cardoza, was married to Frederick H. Buttner at Sunol. The young couple are very well known in society at that place.

The wedding took place at the Congregational Church at high noon, the Rev. W. H. Cooke officiating. After the ceremony lunch was served. The bride was attired in white chiffon trimmed with white lace and insertion, the wedding veil being of white illusion and held in place with orange blossoms. She was attended by her younger sister, Irene, gowned in pink.

The groom was attended by his brother George. The little flower girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan MacDougall, and the little ring bearer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rose.

The church was beautifully decorated in pink and white sweet peas. The young couple left on the afternoon train for a trip down the coast.

stopping at Monterey, Santa Cruz and other places. It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Buttner to reside in San Francisco, where Mr. Buttner is employed.

PARTY AT REWARDENNAN.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., June 21.—The first dancing party of the season at Hotel Rewardennan was given Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dickinson, and like all their parties of previous years was a charming affair.

The pretty redwood pavilion was artistically decorated with tall sword ferns and an immense fish net was festooned from the ceiling from which depended colored lanterns with electric lights.

Swarms of pretty girls in the smartest of evening gowns, an orchestra from Santa Cruz, a dainty supper, all served to make the hop a very jolly affair. A special train from Santa Cruz brought over a number of guests from the hotels there, as well as a large delegation from the town. Altogether there were about 200 in attendance.

From now on there will be informal hops two or three times a week during the season, and from the large number of young people here now the summer promises to be an unusually lively one.

Horseback parties are among the favorite amusements at present, a number of guests having brought their own saddle horses with them.

Another pleasure that many enjoy is the daily excursion by train to Santa Cruz, and a swim in the surf there. It only takes half an hour to go over to the beach and the ride is a delightful one.

The bowling alley, ping-pong tables and tennis court also afford much amusement to the guests both old and young. But, whether it is owing to the mountain air or the sea bathing, nearly every visitor seems to feel young at Rewardennan.

Recent arrivals at Rewardennan are A. S. Fleming and wife, L. S. A.; Thomas P. Woodward, San Francisco; Mrs. J. A. Toran, H. Wolf and wife, Miss Stella Wolf, San Francisco; H. C. Bennett, H. McPherson, San Annes; Mrs. J. D. Jessup, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. North, Oakland.

SYNDICATE MAKES LARGE PURCHASE

SECURES CONTROL OF PROPERTY AT ADELIN AND SAN PABLO AVENUES.

By the acquisition of the triangular piece of property at the corner of Adeline street and San Pablo avenue, the Oakland Realty Syndicate has secured control not only of all the property required by it in its proposed extensive operations in connection with the San Francisco and its ferry slip in Emeryville, but also of all the property between Adeline street and the bay of California and Park avenue, and for a number of blocks to the south.

The acquisition of the gore in question gives the Syndicate a tract of 225 feet on San Pablo avenue, 270 feet on Adeline street and 141 feet from the northern point of the gore. This was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. John F. Storer, the consideration being $25,000.

The property comprises lots Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of the Kimball tract. The fourth lot in the tract occupies the entire frontage of Yerba Buena avenue, and has long been in the possession of the California and Nevada road, which has now been acquired by the Santa Fe.

A portion of the block will be used to widen Yerba Buena avenue, so that that thoroughfare will be as wide between San Pablo avenue and Adeline street, as it is west of San Pablo avenue.

When the Realty Syndicate, under the name of the Oakland Transit Company, has completed its system of street railways in this city, which are to find a point of convergence at the Emeryville ferry, the electric railway tracks and the rails of the Santa Fe will parallel each other on the thoroughfare mentioned.

The property just purchased will thus be conveniently located for a passenger depot, a circumstance which will tend to cause the appreciation of land in that section which is now held by the Realty Syndicate.

MADE A FORTUNE WITH PLUGS.

Mazie Oliver's Success on the Turf With Cripples.

Mazie Oliver is the latest successful owner of thoroughbreds in New York. She is a daughter of "Ellie" Oliver, the famous Harlem river boatman, and an actress of note. A Bingham play, "The Clubhouse."

Nothing save woman's intuition caused Mazie Oliver to buy race horses. She was greatly impressed with her father, who has success achieved by her, who has won a fortune since his advent to the turf in 1890, with "cast offs" from other stables, for which he paid from $5 to $20.

Mazie Oliver now owns two horses—Royston and Lone Fisherman. She bought the former for a mere song, "because he was such a poor old cripple."

Papa Oliver patched him up last winter and this season the owner's kindness by winning four races for her, and $10,000 in bets for her father and his friends.

With part of her winnings she subsequently bought Lone Fisherman. Billy Oliver is a most remarkable man on the American turf with cripples. He bought Landsdale for $25 and won $15,000 with him in stakes and purses. He secured Ed Kearney for $125, won $12,000 with him and sold him to Pittsburgh Phil for $500. Warrenton he purchased for $100, won many important races with him and was beaten a few inches by Pink Coat for the American Derby, worth $100,000 in 1896. There are only a few of the "plugs" that he has won with.

LONDON, June 14.—It has been formally announced here that the great Bernhardt will make another tour of the United States, beginning next October. She will essay the masculine part of Romeo and Miss Maude Adams, the famous American actress, will be her leading lady in the role of Juliet.

Both Bernhardt and Miss Adams will use French in the production, but the other members of the cast will speak English, a novel combination, which is attracting considerable attention here.

After returning from America, the combination will come to London and will be heard at one of Charles Frohmant's theatres.

Another American actress who has recently received distinction abroad is Miss Maud Fealy, who has been engaged by E. S. Willard for his American tour, which will also begin in October. Miss Fealy is now in San Francisco.

MEXICANS TAKE TO ENGLISH.

The progress that the English language has made in Mexico in the last few years is remarkable. It has not been long since French was easily the second language of the country, but to-day it is effectively replaced by English. Where a half dozen years ago only the largest establishments of those catering particularly to foreign trade employed English-speaking clerks, to-day it is possible for an American to make his wants known in his own language in every store of any importance.

The demand for English newspapers, magazines and books among the better classes throughout the country has increased to a notable extent. So much of the important business transactions in Mexico to-day has an international character and so many English speaking foreigners are interested in business concerns of the country, that professional men find the language almost a necessity in order to secure their share of a very profitable part of the business. In the City of Mexico the great preparatory school has replaced Latin by English. It is to be taught in a thorough four years' course, and will be obligatory.—Modern Mexico.

A PLEA OF VEGETARIANS.

Vegetarians hold that meat is poisonous and condemn it severely in every possible way. Water forms 75 per cent of its composition, they claim, and what gives it its flavor is the principle of active poison in it. Venous blood, they say, is admitted to be poisonous, and it is this blood in meat that causes it to taste pleasantly. To prove their claim they state that meat washed clean of its venous blood, and no one will eat it. "Eat vegetables, fruits and grains," they say. "Join our ranks, for one-third of the world's inhabitants belong to us already—the millions of Buddhists are with us, their creed forbidding them to kill any living thing. Tolstoy is a vegetarian, and Thoreau was one also, while in the past our fold included Adam, Plato, Voltaire, Benjamin Franklin and a thousand other immortal names."—Philadelphia Record.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC BOOTH.

The Southern Pacific booth, located near the band-stand, is one of the neatest and prettiest on the grounds.

The general plan of the booth, as well as the oil painting on the front, giving an idea of a trip to the Southern Pacific, was the work of the Southern Pacific Co. in 1849 and the palatial "Overland Limited" in 1902, was the conception of Mr. F. A. Hooper chief clerk in the office of G. T. Forsyth, Division Freight and Passenger Agent, San Francisco, California, and the land. But the execution of detail and building the booth is due to Mr. F. D. Carguen, superintendent of the West Coast division, and the decorations and displays were planned and executed by Mr. F. C. Cutting who has charge of the electric lights of the new "Overland Limited."

The booth has been a source of pleasure for sight seers who delight in the beautiful, its walls being hung with pictures of the romantic scenery located along the route of the Southern Pacific road. It has also been a bureau of information. There was distributed, every day and night throughout the week, the latest copy of the Southern Pacific matter gotten out by the Southern Pacific Department, to which California today is indebted for her magnificent transportation facilities and roads. We are assured by the Southern Pacific Company that the work of advertising California and securing settlers for the state will be pushed more vigorously than ever.

CALLAGHAN'S BAND.

The excellent music furnished at the fair grounds has been favorably commented upon by the thousands who have attended the carnival. The quality has been out of the ordinary and reflects great credit on Mr. Joseph L. Callaghan, the able and efficient leader, who has worked hard to give the multitude the most musical pleasure and entertainment in this respect, he has certainly succeeded, for every one attending the grounds has had a complimentary remark to make for the excellent music furnished by Mr. Callaghan's competent band of musicians. Much credit is due to Mr. John F. Callaghan, the leader, and to Mr. Thomas Valera, the cornet soloist, especial mention must be made. The several other members of the band, including "The Palms," Facilia Polka, Klirney and others, were gems and were deserving of the highest praise they received. The baritone played by Mr. Charles Dittmer has caused special interest.

Because James P. Dunn stated that he lived anywhere, he was fined $1 for not having a license to sell.

And because he had served one and one-half days in the Emergency Hospital, he was fined $5.

"What's this man's name?"

"Bob Davis, the candidate for Sheriff?" One dollar, please.

"What's this man's name?" Dunn and you a dentist, huh? Well, have you a half dollar in your pocket that is not working?"

Ray Baker from Frank Jordan's office was fined 50 cents for the wearing of the green.

"Is that what I get for voting for you, Doc?" asked Baker as he paid his fine.

"No, you're getting it for being shot with an embarrassing fluid, anyway."

"What's this man's name?"

"Crowley, D. D. in front and M. D. behind."

"Before I am sentenced," said Dr. Crowley, "I would like to state that I know the court is a crook. I know, I know you when you were in short pants, so I—"

"If you don't shut up your breath will be coming in short pants," said the court.

"One dollar or 100 years."

"Roll up," said the court, guilty of having a hoarse voice and had to pay a fine of 50 cents.

"After many more victims were brought before the judge, Mehmman and fined, the court adjourned until tonight.

COMBINATIONS ARE MADE BY THE STATE POLITICIANS.

How the Fight For Governor Looks---To Regulate Corporations---Proposed Commission---Notes About Men in Politics.

BY GEORGE F. HATTON.

(Special to the Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—The holding of the county conventions in Stanislaus, Madera, Glenn, Colusa, Tehama and Tulare during the past few days is proof enough that the campaign is on. While the excuse advanced that it was necessary to do so in order to offset the work done by the Democrats is reasonable enough, and is doubtless true in some instances, it cannot be denied that the underlying motive in one quarter at least was to get the delegates out upon lines calculated to show how the opposition to the State machine is venturing its strength.

Next month is to witness an avalanche of these conventions, for commencing with Kings county on July 12, gatherings are programmed for quite a while, and in some instances there is such a crowding that two or three are called for the same day. Los Angeles has decided to have the clans at work on August 19th, and as that date is directly ahead of the State Convention, the object probably is to let every one see how the famous Flint-Gage conflict is working out in the Governor's home county.

Those who have been long identified with State politics say that the present campaign is starting up in a way that promises to develop it into one of the most bitter personal encounters ever held. The picking up by Gage of the gauntlet thrown down by the Call, Chronicle, and Los Angeles Times, and the liberal suits that have followed, alone furnish enough material for a sensational set-to, and judging by the temper of some of the contestants, we will be fortunate if the row does not develop into an old-time Kentucky shot-gun feud.

A Country Combination.

An interesting phase of the situation is that the country politicians are saying that instead of San Francisco running things at the State Convention, it will only be the tail to the dog. The theory upon which this is based is that the country is organizing and concentrating its forces, whereas, the metropolis is in such a mix-up that it will send its representatives to Sacramento in a condition of political demoralization.

It must be confessed that unless matters straighten out here within the next thirty days, San Francisco will be in a bad shape to tackle a State fight. At the present time indications point to two primary tickets in all the districts, three in eight or ten of them, and perhaps four in some quarters. Ruff, with his Primary League, for example, will make a bid to carry the city from one end to the other. He has already organized a club in each Assembly district, and under the caption of the league, he will endeavor to enlist the independent voters under his standard.

Then there is Martin Kelly with his Republican Alliance. There is no questioning the fact that Kelly has a pronounced push following and hence, although Ruff would doubtless have liked to ally Kelly to his cause, it would mean suicide to his movement to have gathered into the fold some of the very elements he is crusading against. Kelly, therefore, went at things on his own hook, and as he is a rustler, he has succeeded in getting together a fairly formidable organization that will at least be a factor on primary day.

The State organization will be represented by the regular Republican ticket and will have all the benefits that go with the straight party movement. The Primary Leaguers are inclined, however, to discount the good effects that will be obtained in that direction, as they say that every one understands the situation, and that few votes will be gathered in on merely a party basis.

A Clash of Claims.

As a result of all this, it is easy enough to comprehend why the situation here can be dubbed complicated.

Opinion varies very greatly as to what the outcome will be, for while, on the one hand the Primary Leaguers proclaim that they will sweep the field from one end to the other, the machine interests pooh-pooh the idea and call attention to the ease with which they routed some same opponents at the municipal fight last year.

Schmitz continues to be the central figure in the local arena, for although it is stated semi-authoritatively, that he will not seek the Governorship, so much continues to be done for him on that score that the other candidates are inclined to be skeptical as to his non-Gubernatorial announcements. It is palpable though that even should an understanding quietly exist that he will not run for Governor, it would not be to the interests of the Primary League to make public announcement of the same, for with Schmitz a probability, the labor elements with which he is affiliated can be held together for the League candidates for State delegates. With Schmitz absolutely out of the race, Governor Gage would doubtless be able to attract this labor vote to his ticket—hence it looks as if the policy Ruff would want to pursue is the very one he has adopted.

Mayor or Governor.

Of course no one thinks for a moment that Schmitz would not take the Gubernatorial nomination if he could get it. Being Mayor of San Francisco is a position of power and prestige. It is true but it is a minor office as compared with being chief executive of the State of California and in control of all the State boards and institutions. Where the rub comes in is that Schmitz does not propose to figure in the role of trying to take too many nuts out of the battle and getting none. While it is true that he might secure many delegates in San Francisco he knows that it is hard to place his hand upon any other part of the State where he would have any positive strength, for although places like San Jose, Sacramento and Stockton are friendly to him there are no elements in his cause at any of the cities named strong enough to put up a State ticket known to be in his interests as against the other candidates.

Then again the rank and file of the labor party is inclined to look askance at his declaration that if he runs for Governor it will be as a Republican candidate. When they backed him for Mayor they did so in the name of, and in the cause of labor, and their votes were cast, irrespective of party feelings. That is the basis upon which they started out, and upon which they desire to continue and Schmitz is shrewd enough to realize that it might be dangerous to his ambitions to have it said that he does not stand squarely behind the labor guns.

To Regulate Corporations.

Schmitz is well satisfied anyhow with being Mayor and the labor interests want to keep him there. They know that while he is in charge at the City Hall they have a powerful champion on hand in the event of another conflict between capital and labor, for he stood the test in the recent strike of the United Railroads and they credit him with the victory then obtained. Should Schmitz be transferred to Sacramento, however, and some untied quantity be placed in control at the City Hall, the confidence of their present position would be somewhat shaken and in consequence they would shudder to hold on to a sure thing than take chances with a new man.

Among the many constitutional amendments to be submitted at the election this fall is one that will shake things up. If it passes, more than anything that has been heard of here for a quarter of a century. It is of such vital importance that those interested in public matters are already giving it their earnest attention and it will doubtless be heard of in a very pronounced way in the press before long.

The amendment is numbered 28 and provides for a commission of five to regulate all quasi-public corporations, in the language of the measure, the Commissioners shall have exclusive jurisdiction and power, and it shall be their duty, after notice and investigation, and hearing, to fix and establish all and every rate and charge for services performed and commodities furnished in this State in respect to the following:

Transportation of passengers and freight and all other services by common carriers.

Gas, electric light and power and water for any purpose (except when any of the same is to be supplied by a corporation solely to the stockholders thereof without profit, and except waters supplied by irrigation districts formed under the laws of the State, or sold or supplied by contract or grant in gross or for years and not distributed to consumers).

Telephone and telegraph services.

Sleeping car companies or corporations and all sleeping car services, and also to make regulations concerning the same.

Express companies or corporations and all express service and also to make regulations concerning the same.

The enormous powers vested in such a commission are patent at a glance. Passage of the amendment would mean an end to the present system of having waters rates fixed by Councilmen or Supervisors, the constant meddling about telephone, telegraph and express charges would be determined and in fact all the corporations coming directly in contact with the people would be under the thumb of the Commission provided of course that the amendment was not subsequently knocked out in the Supreme or Federal courts.

Furthermore it would mean the abolishing of the Bank Commission and the Insurance Commissioner and also find himself, Odell like, with occupation gone, as all such duties and powers would be vested in the new board.

The make-up of the Commission is to be by districts but the first board would be appointed by the Governor who would designate one for two years, one for four, one for six, one for eight and one for ten. For six years, therefore, the Commission would be controlled by the original appointing power which would be Governor Gage for the first term.

As soon as the returns were certified in the office of the Secretary of State the salary of each Commissioner is set at $5,000 and the offices are elective and for ten year terms.

A Variety of Proposals.

The other amendments to be presented to the people are in some instances important, as will be seen by the following digest of the measures that will be upon the ticket.

One provides that the Legislature can divide the State into fish and game districts and may enact such laws for the protection of the fish and game therein as it may deem appropriate.

There is one declaring that the public school system shall include private and grammar schools and such high schools, evening schools, Normal schools and technical schools as may be established by the Legislature or by municipal or district authority. The entire revenue derived from the State school fund and from the general State school tax shall be applied exclusively to the support of primary and grammar schools, but the Legislature may authorize and cause to be levied a special State school tax for the support of high schools and technical schools included in the public school system, and all revenue derived from such special tax shall be applied exclusively to the support of the schools for which such special tax is levied.

Another amendment gives cities with a population of more than 5,000 the right to frame charters for their own government.

Labor interests will be interested in the following: The time of service of all laborers or workmen or mechanics employed upon any public works of the State of California or of any county, city and county, city, town, district, township or any other political subdivision thereof, whether said work is done by contract or otherwise, shall be restricted to eight hours a day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency or war, and the Legislature shall provide by law that a stipulation to this effect shall be incorporated in all contracts for public work.

Criminal practice is changed as follows: Offenses heretofore required to be prosecuted by indictment shall be prosecuted by information, after examination and commitment by a magistrate, as may be prescribed by law.

The only other amendment relates to elections. It declares that the Legislature shall have power to provide that in different parts of the State different methods may be employed for receiving and registering the will of the people, as expressed at elections, and may provide that mechanical devices may be used within designated subdivisions of the State at the option of the local authority indicated by the Legislature for that purpose.

Here and There.

Judge Lawlor will leave for his vacation in a few days. He has planned another walking tour, similar to the one he indulged in last year when he took a stroll to Yosemite.

Marion De Vries was in town a good part of the week. His health has wonderfully improved since he was here last, and he seems to be thoroughly acclimated to the East. Although removed from the sphere of active politics by reason of his position as a member of the Board of General Appraisers in New York, he keeps in close touch with what is going on in California, especially so in his old Congressional district—the Second.

Jack Brown of the State Board of Equalization is here on official business.

Ex-Senator Voorhees is down from Sutter creek. His mining properties are said to be paying remarkably well.

Sheldon G. Kellogg is rapidly recovering from the attack of pneumonia that laid him at death's door a couple of weeks ago. He gets around in time he will be heard from as a candidate for the nomination for Attorney General.

Douglas Cone was down this week from Red Bluff and put in a few days gathering in the political news.

Senators Tom Flint and Robert Bulla, accompanied by their wives, left Thursday for Yosemite.

Warren Porter was up from Watsonville.

Judge Peter Shields dropped in from Sacramento during the week. He has entirely abandoned his Supreme Court aspirations this year, and will seek re-election as Superior Judge. Late gossip from the Capital says that Albert Johnson will not run for Judge, but that one of the Republican nominations will probably be tendered to Frank Ryan. This will make the fight interesting, as it would take a good guesser to pick the three winners out of Hart, Shields, Ryan and Hughes.

Mayor Clark of Sacramento was among the many who landed in town during the week.

Hartley Pratt, the sage of Yolo, leaves tonight for Truckee. He has bet J. A. Marsh, the automobile expert, that he will walk to Truckee and back again without spending a cent. He is to support himself en route by selling the fish that he catches.

LONG NEGLECT OF AN ASSIGNEE.

Lloyd Ogden has granted the request of John Lloyd, assignee of the insolvent estate of the late John A. Robinson, to sell a portion of the estate of the deceased which Robinson, in life, thought had no value, and for which F. A. Huntington, a well-known mining man of Hayward, with headquarters in San Francisco, today offered $5,000.

Opposition to the acceptance of the offer was made by Welles Whitmore, who said he represented Mrs. Robinson, widow of the deceased.

He said he had been only recently brought into the case and that the widow of Mr. Robinson, who was formerly a Deputy County Clerk of this county, did not know but that the property in question might be worth $50,000 instead of $5,000.

The property in question comprises 150 lineal feet of the Socrates quicksilver mine, part of which is located in Lake and part in Sonoma County. This is at the rate of a little more than $33 per foot. It represents a one-twentieth interest of the mine in question, all the rest of which has already been bonded by F. A. Huntington at the same rate per foot. If the matter of the Robinson interest, Huntington, however, will pay spot cash.

As another ground for opposing the order of sale, Attorney Whitmore said that the estate had been insolvent for a long time and that the assignee had never filed an inventory, and had furthermore never filed an account, and yet the assignee had been appointed eighteen years ago.

Still further, Whitmore said that Lloyd had originally given a bond in the sum of $15,000. That bond was ample as security, but two of the bondsmen had since died, so that the assignee virtually had no bond and could not act as assignee.

He asked that the matter go over until after the assignee had made a report, until a full inventory could be obtained of the value of the property. He, continued the attorney, was property which the man in whose name it was, thought to be valueless, and now worth at least $5,000. Perhaps it might be worth a great deal more.

Judge Ogden held that the assignee under the order of the court could sell the property at a price which was the request that could be got for it.

Lloyd, the assignee, was put upon the stand at the request of Whitmore. He testified that when Robinson became insolvent he had been in the property in a host of places, which were not worth the paper they were written on. Robinson had received all those from friends when he was in the land office. Witnesses had looked up the title to these deeds conferred and found that it was valueless. Robinson was rich on paper, but poor in fact. All that wealth had been given to him in a loan of $10,000, and that had been divided among the insolvent's creditors.

"Why," asked the court, "have you not, as assignee, filed a report in all these years?"

"Well," said Lloyd, "it was somewhat negligent but really there was nothing to report."

"You will make a report as soon as possible," said Judge Ogden, in a tone of severity, "because the neglect is apparent and admitted."

Judge Ogden asked Mr. Huntington if he would open his offer of $5,000 for another week.

Mr. Huntington said that he would as soon fight the case in the Supreme Court as to pay more than $5,000 for the property.

Huntington declared through his attorney that bids had been advertised for nineteen days and that no offer had been received save that of Huntington's. He said that no other bidder would be likely to buy a 1-20 interest in such property under the circumstances.

Judge Ogden then called for bids and none higher than that of Huntington's being received, sold the property for $5,000. Of this amount all but $1,500 will go to Robinson's creditors.

ANOTHER CONTINUANCE FOR KINARD.

The case of C. E. Kinard, charged with embezzling $14 from a client, was continued in the Police Court by the request of the Prosecuting Attorney to July 10th, before a jury.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC EMPLOYEES SUSPECT A BUNCO SCHEME.

They Pass Up a Suspicious Alleged Project to Build a General Railway News Circular From Nevada Monument to Collis P. Huntington. Asking Subscriptions. Gathered Around West Oakland Yards.

The heads of the various departments of the Southern Pacific Company are in receipt of a circular from an unknown and unauthorized individual asking for subscriptions to a memorial fund in honor of the late C. P. Huntington. The author of the circular letter signs himself John M. Crowley, with postoffice address at Reno, Nevada. The author of the scheme to erect a monument to the former president of the company asks that subscriptions be forwarded to Charles Seyler, Cashier of the Farmers' Bank in Los Angeles.

For fear that some of the employees might contribute $5 or $10 to the fund, the circular asks that the superintendent and heads of departments request the employees to contribute only a small sum, as it is desirable to have the subscription a popular affair. The writer of the circular refrains from stating how much money is to be raised, but alleges that after the money begins to flow in a committee on location and design will be appointed to choose an appropriate site for a monument to Mr. Huntington.

The railroad men have given the circular a very cold reception, and are saying things which should make the author's ears hum. "Barefaced fraud," "a steal," "an imposition," are the epithets to the scheme. When it is known that there are 60,000 employees of the Southern Pacific Company, the magnitude of the scheme becomes apparent. If each employee contributed fifty cents, a sum small enough to be deemed as pocket change, the fund would reach the handsome amount of $30,000, or if a dollar was given there would be $60,000 available for monument purposes.

As the author of the circular did not state the sum to be realized, the men are at a loss to know how much they should contribute. The heads of the departments and of the men is that the late C. P. Huntington is entitled to a monument, and that they could be asked to subscribe to a memorial fund providing that an association is formed and a competent committee appointed, but they are hardly in sympathy with the plan of subscription on an unknown man's initiative, and sending money to the order of some one in Los Angeles, who is equally unknown.

Among the heads of the departments, after attempting to discover who John M. Crowley of Reno, Nevada, was, threw the circular into the waste basket without presenting it to their employees.

The circular, which is poorly written, ambiguous and ungrammatical, is as follows: "Nevada, June 1. Superintendent. In submitting to you and others this document, I desire to state that I am so at the suggestion of the employees and ex-employees of the S. P. Co., who are desirous of contributing to a fund for a memorial to the late C. P. Huntington, which is to be erected on some conspicuous site on the line of the S. P. Co. The respect shown our late chief and of expressed admiration of his character and his worth by those who have been and those who are still associated with the great work which he crowned his active life, is very gratifying, and such appreciation can best be shown by some memorial of a kind, which with his name at least chiseled thereon, will signalize to all and especially to those who follow, that his great ability and worth was deserving of such lasting tribute.

"It is earnestly requested that only a small amount be subscribed by each, as it is the aim to make it a popular tribute, manifested by a great number of subscribers, than by the amount subscribed by a few."

"Superintendents will confer a favor by giving members of train crews an opportunity of reading this document and explaining it to the men, as well as of departments by giving members of the staff the same opportunity. The gentlemen to whom this is addressed will, after subscriptions are made, please send list, with amounts subscribed, to Mr. Charles Seyler, Cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, Los Angeles, (former agent S. P. Co. at Los Angeles) who has kindly consented to act as treasurer to the memorial fund."

As soon as lists are in a design a location committee will be appointed, and all subscribers will be advised of progress and results. Yours, respectfully, "JOHN M. CROWLEY, 'Reno, Nevada.'"

WILL RECLAIM MARSH.

Now that the big fill at the machine shops has been completed, the Southern Pacific Company will begin at once the work of reclaiming the marsh lands at the foot of Kirkham street. This portion of Oakland has been in an unsanitary condition for many years, owing to the debris and gases caused by the tide water backing up as far as Fifth and Sixth streets. The stench coming from the marsh lands has been very strong, especially during the summer months, and has made the locality an undesirable one from a residence standpoint.

All this will be obliterated by filling in the portion of the marsh at the foot of Kirkham street, which acts as a channel for the tide water. It is estimated that the work will consume about two weeks, requiring about 2,000 car loads of dirt.

The district affected by the refuse from the fill is about twenty-five square blocks. When the channel has been filled in, the district will be comparatively healthy and free from unsanitary stenches.

The land reclaimed will be used by the Southern Pacific Company for extending their yards.

QUICK HANDLING OF LARGE RIVER STEAMER.

Fifteen minutes after the ropes and cables had been fastened around the hull of the big river steamer Knight, No. 2, while lying in the channel she was resting on the marine ways, ready to be repaired.

This is the quickest time on record of taking a big boat out of water and placing it on the ways for repairs. The feat was made possible by the mechanical ingenuity of Master Mechanic McKenzie. Hereafter it will require a full half day to do the same work.

A couple of months ago McKenzie converted two of the small locomotives or "dummies" which formerly ran on the Telegraph avenue line, into stationary engines, and by ingenious appliances made the drivers perform the work of the ordinary fly wheel. It was by the assistance of these two converted engines that the Knight No. 2 was hauled out of the water and docked in such remarkable time.

The examinations consisted of written questions and answers relative to the use of air and steam as applied to locomotives and trains. PASS EXAMINATION AS LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.

The firemen's examinations for promotions as engineers has been completed by General Foreman, Kellogg and Traveling Engineer Harry Stevenson. The men who successfully passed the examination are: Firemen Weston, Stokes, Foster, Murphy, Nissen, Carney, Lewis, Carpenter, Turnbull, Garrison, Creigh and Gallister.

AIR DISPLACES MANY COAL CARRIES.

The dream of burning oil as a fuel has been to put out of the coast trade the steam colliers Washburn, Ascension, San Mateo and Alcoa. The vessels used in the company's service. Many others have also been put out of the coast carrying business and have gone to the Eastern coast. The Washburn, for years a steady visitor at Long Wharf, and one of the largest colliers here, is now on her way to New York.

Many vessels are now lying in the harbor unable to obtain charters. Several other vessels will be put out of commission soon on account of the general use of oil.

NOTES FROM THE MILLS AND THE SHIP YARDS.

The big men under Superintendent Robinson are kept busy turning out prepared lumber for the various points on the system. This week several car loads were shipped to Los Angeles, the ship that are being erected at that point.

Lumber is also being turned out for the construction of six new freight barges to be built between Oakland and San Francisco.

The material for the new commissary building of the company, which is now in the course of erection, has been shipped through Foreman F. V. Carney's hands.

The steamer Bay City has been taken off the narrow gauge ferry and will be given an inspection on the ways. The Oakland is taking her place.

The boat will not be converted into a lumber until she is placed on the ways for a general overhauling at the hands of Superintendent Bruce.

LUMBER TRADE BRISK AT LONG WHARF.

Business at Long Wharf was rather slack during the week except in lumber. Of this product there were 1,500,000 feet handled.

The sugar shipments will begin on Monday. The transfer platform is handling 110 cars per day of perishable goods.

FIRST BALDWIN COMPOUND CONVERTED INTO OIL.

The first of the new Baldwin compounds is being converted into oil. This engine, No. 223, has a remarkable record. She carried the Chicago Express at the dizzy rate of 70 miles an hour. As it was a regular train the time is considered remarkable.

The other Baldwin engines will be converted in oil as rapidly as they come into the shops for repairs.

WORKMEN CATCH FISH BEFORE COMPLETING FILL.

Just before the big fill was completed at the machine shops, great quantities of fish were caught by the workmen. They had been impaled in the small body of water, which was cut off from the bay when the work of reclaiming the tidal lands was begun. As the process of filling in continued the watery home of the fish was diminished, until at last the fish had no room in which to live.

WOODMEN HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN FROM SAN JOSE.

The Southern Pacific Company was called upon Friday to provide a special train of twelve cars to carry the San Jose Woodmen of the Wood from their home city to Oakland to witness the imposing installation ceremonies held in the Macdonough Theater.

PAY CAR WILL BE DUE ON TUESDAY.

For some reason the pay car did not arrive at the West Oakland yards on Saturday, much to the disappointment of the 2,000 employees. The railroad boys were calculating on adding the Elks' Fair and Street Carnival to come to a fitting close, but the non-arrival of the pay car makes it a case of hopes deferred.

ANOTHER OFFICE REMOVES TO 'FRISCO.

Following closely upon the removal of H. W. Ball, Chief Clerk of the Motive Power Department, from Sacramento to San Francisco, comes the announcement that H. J. Small, Superintendent of the Motive Power at Sacramento, will also move his headquarters to San Francisco.

This move is in accordance with the company's plan to centralize all the heads of the department. It is believed that other removals will soon follow.

INTERESTING BREVITIES FROM LONG WHARF.

The sugar ship Tillie E. Starbuck has finished discharging a cargo of 50,000 bags.

The British ship Stomach has finished discharging a cargo of coke, pig iron and coal.

The British bark Westgate has finished discharging a cargo of Australian coal.

The following lumber vessels have discharged cargoes: Phoenix, Point Arena, Parkersburg, Redwood City, Scotia, Acme.

The Haystack is due Monday with a cargo of sugar from Hawaii.

PERSONAL MENTION OF THE RAILROAD MEN.

Operator Hazen of the West Oakland yards, has left for Mexico to take charge of the ticket office at that point. His place is filled by F. Lloyd.

H. J. Small, Superintendent of Motive Power at Sacramento, was a visitor at the yards on Thursday.

James McKenzie of the roundhouse was severely injured Thursday by a heavy piece of iron crushing his foot. He will be in the hospital for two weeks.

Mechanic J. M. Baldwin has left on a two weeks' vacation for Lake Tahoe.

Joe Evans of the machine shops has obtained leave of absence for a month. He will spend his vacation at Santa Cruz.

Charles Christensen, who has been off for the last three months, owing to an accident, will return to work on Monday.

Charles Means and wife are contemplating a trip to Truckee, early in July.

Dave Parker of the machine shops is visiting friends at Reno.

The Pacific Coast Railway Club meets tonight at the Palace Hotel.

George C. Floyd of St. Louis will be the principal speaker.

A special excursion left Friday for Truckee carrying a large number of excursionists.

All the material is in place for the new 2,500-gallon oil tank. The construction will take about sixty days.

A special train is now operated from Elmer to carry the early fruit to San Francisco and Oakland markets.

On June 30th the railroad employees will give their picnic at Farnbrook Park.

WILL GO TO YOSEMITE.

Mrs. E. B. Sanborn and her daughter Miss Grace, and Miss Laura Sanborn, will start for the Yosemite on Monday. Later in the week Mrs. Wetherbee and Mrs. Farham, accompanied by their families, will start for the same place.

APPOINTED GUARDIAN.

Hampton Field has been appointed guardian of Daniel S. Sweet, a minor, whose estate is valued at $15,000.

DECREE IS GRANTED.

A decree of distribution has been granted in the matter of the estate of James Henry, deceased.

Interested in Interest?

—naturally you are, if you deal with money at all, and you are even more interested in saving the payment of as much interest as possible.

Our system of installment loans is the best we know of, and we know a great deal of such matters. To begin with, we pay for all the legal work, merely charging you the cost of a search of title and recording fees. Then you can pay back the loan as you please. If you pay $20.00 today, interest on that twenty ceases at once. If your loan runs four years, think of the ease with which you can discharge it under these conditions.

The Prince of Wales, and later King Edward VII, has attracted the interest of the world by his accession to the throne and his subsequent acts. The new King of Great Britain has become known as a friend of the people, but it is largely due to his patient and long-suffering wife that he has won the applause of the world.

So long as the beautiful Queen Alexandra sits beside the monarch there can be little fear of strife in Great Britain. She is a model wife and mother, as well as being one of the most gracious queens that ever occupied an English throne, and she is an excellent type of the woman who inspired the poet to say, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

NOTES IN THE LITERARY WORLD.

Recent Books From the Press That Will Interest Readers.

"The Prince of Captivity" is the title of a new novel by Sydney C. Grier, who has already given us several books which have met with a great deal of favor from the public. Among these may be mentioned "Peace with Honor," "Like Another Helen," and "The Warden of the Marceles." The scene of "The Prince of Captivity" is laid abroad and the reader is introduced to a number of places which are described in a most interesting and graphic manner. The characters, too, or many of them, at least, have a charm of novelty about them which is a credit to the author. The story itself is of engrossing interest and will be followed by the reader with eagerness from the first to the close. Unlike many stories, the theater of which is abroad, the scene in the work under consideration changes from one country to another and each change introduces a variety of character which gives an added charm to the romance.

The book is beautifully bound and is published by L. C. Page & Co. of Boston, Mass. It retails at $1.50 by Smith & Sons.

ABROAD WITH THE JIMMIES.

"Abroad With the Jimmies" is the latest book of Lillian Bell whose last preceding effort was "As Seen by Me." The author depicts Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie in a very clever manner as Americans and audience, who are making a tour abroad. She accompanies them and, at times, becomes the heroine of the recital. Wherever the trio go or whatever they do, they go and do as Americans. There are times when nothing happens of moment and there are others when the episode is full of interest which will make it delightful reading to people on this side of the ocean. There are a number of things included in the book which one finds described nowhere else and all of them are based upon fact. Aside from this, the style of the author is chatty, racy and graceful and is bound to charm the reader from the outset. In some respects the book is a unique one. It is not a book of foreign travel, but one of foreign experiences, which describes the doings and the undoings of the travelers as they have not been described in many a day. The book is published by L. C. Page and Company of Boston, Mass., and retails at $1.50 at Smith & Sons.

CLOISTERING OF URSULA.

"The Cloistering of Ursula" is a story of Italy, which is graphically told by Clinton Scollard. It is finely illustrated and this feature, which lends a charm to its descriptive work, has been done by Harry C. Edwards.

Italy has always been a fertile field for romances. The present story is proof positive that the field has not grown fallow. The tale is of the Italy of Andrea degli Uccelli. It gives in the main a somber view of the time and people, but there are streaks of golden light which announce the coming sunrise of the renaissance. There is a skilful blending of love, intrigue, diplomacy and adventure and, at times, the recital becomes of thrilling interest. The book is published by L. C. Page & Co. of Boston, Mass., and retails for $1.50 at Smith & Sons.

STEPHEN SHOLTON.

"Stephen Sholton" is a story of life as it is in town and country. It is written by Charles Felton Pidgin, and is finely illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. The story was written with a purpose—that of showing the evils of intemperance. The characters in the story are purely creations of fiction and the incidents are imaginary. The author has striven to show that the greater offender is not the so-called "drunken bum," but the educated and intelligent man whose passions are inflamed and kept alive by intoxicating liquors. The author holds that the tendency to reform must come from within the man himself. The hero of the story seeks to effect this reform and proceeds upon the theory that the millennium can be reached only by slow and progressive stages. The book is published by L. C. Page & Company, Boston, and retails for $1.50 at Smith & Sons.

THE OUTLOOK.

Among the notable features of this week's Outlook are: "The Chicago Teamsters' Strike," by George C. Sikes; "The Making of an American in the West," by Bishop J. B. REGISTRATION of the County Clerk.

NOTICE IS HEREBY given that in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 53 Statutes of 1909, all voters of Alameda County must apply for re-registration in order to be able to vote at the General Election in November, as every name in the Great Register was cancelled January 1st, 1912.

Due to the fact that there is no provision of law providing assistance to the Clerk to register

IT IS IMPORTANT THAT VOTERS SHOULD AP-PEAR FOR REGISTRATION AT
THE CLERK'S OFFICE IN ORDER TO EXPE-DIENTHE THE WORK.

Each re-registration begins on the 1st day of January, and will be in progress at all times until five days preceding the next election in November.
In order to facilitate the work of re-registration, attention is called to the provisions of Section 1097.

Each reads as follows:

"I, _____, No person's name shall be entered upon the production and filing of a true and correct copy of the judgment of the Bureau directing such entry to be made."

"I, _____, a naturalized citizen, upon the production of his certificate of naturalization, which certificate must be issued prior to the date of his application for or upon his affidavit that it is lost or destroyed, and that he is the owner of his possession, which affidavit is sworn to before a justice of the peace and place of his naturalization, together with his affidavit that he has resided in the United States for five years immediately preceding the time of application, and that he would be a qualified elector at the time of the next succeeding election;

ed, however, if such naturalization shall have been previously registered, and the qualified elector in any of the cities, or cities and counties of this State, his name must not be entered by the clerk unless he produces a certificate of such registration, issued by the State, authorized by law to issue such certificate, which certificate shall be a valid evidence of his naturalization.

If born in a foreign country, upon the affidavit that he became a citizen of the United States, or of the State of which he is a citizen, before the registration of his father while he was a resident in the United States, and under the age of twenty-one years, he shall be deemed to be an elector of the county in which he would be an elector of the county next ensuing election.

In other cases, upon the affidavit of the elector that he is a citizen of the State, and of the county in which he is a county at the next succeeding election.

Further notice is hereby given that Affidavits of Registration must be sworn to before the County Clerk or his deputies, and that they can not, according to the provisions of the new Registration Law, be sworn to before any other officer.

THE SHIRTWAIST GIRL AS WE OFTEN SEE HER.

Well Kept Hands And The Means Thereto.

No one finds it difficult to keep the finger-nails looking trim and neat when in town, for manicures are numerous and reasonable in their charges. It's quite another problem, however, to make the hands appear presentable when one is off in the country or the mountains enjoying a summer vacation.

Professional manicures are likely to take the form of luxuries, if they are to be found at all, so a little knowledge concerning the care of one's own nails does not come amiss.

The hands are always so much in evidence that unless they are well kept they become rather offensive. There is no excuse, of course, for any man or woman possessing untidy nails, yet sometimes such things have been seen.

A high polish and deep coloring are not recommended, but the fingers which are stretched forth in friendly greeting should be pretty, if possible, but certainly well cared for.

When in town it is always an excellent reason alone it is always advisable to patronize a thoroughly good manicure; though, bear in mind, this does not necessarily mean the most expensive. A really good manicure studies each pair of hands separately and treats them according to their needs.

For example, some fingers are the better for a little regular softening of the cuticle or for bleaching, while others, perhaps, need a careful treatment for hangnails.

The first step taken by professional manicures is shaping the nails, and for such a purpose a clipper is used. With this instrument the top and sides of each nail are trimmed to something like the desired length, and then a file smoothes down the sharp points, giving the nail a pretty curve.

This clipper is a vast improvement over the filing alone, for the prolonged use of a steel file on the nails will eventually toughen them.

In shape the nails should follow the well-defined half moon at the base. Tapering fingers, naturally, will have more pointed

"Once more the shirtwaist girl is with us," I heard someone say the other day. Why, the dear creature has never left us. She has been with us all these wintery months, and is only blooming forth in immaculate linen or fluffy lace creations, first cousin of the silk shirtwaist of the cold months. The shirtwaist girl has become an individual, like the "Gibson girl," the "summer hammock girl" and the "bathing girl." She has a niche all to herself in life's gallery, and she can well afford that superior air, knowing beyond peradventure that not all of her pretty sisters dare attempt the shirtwaist style.

Some women are built for the shirtwaists, and it is only such a woman who should attempt the severe linen kind. She must know how to carry herself with a shirtwaist air, and the shirtwaist girl knows this; but to all other girls this understanding is as impossible as the comprehension of a railway timetable or the sharpening of a lead-pencil. She usually looks as though the tail-end of a cyclone had picked her up. No matter how hard she tries, her shirtwaist and skirt seem to become divorced and that awful safety-pin comes in evidence.

This is the girl who does not know how, but I will give you a picture of a girl who does. She gathers in even plaits the fulness of the back of her shirtwaist to a piece of tape, which she ties tautly around her waist. On the tape in the back are three rings. On these rings she fastens her skirt, and it is just this little distinction between the girl who knows and the girl who doesn't know that makes the shirtwaist girl a success.

The dear creature this summer is to be a thing of beauty, though she is too perishable to be a joy forever. The shirtwaists this year show a decided leaning toward fluffiness and laciness. These made of Persian linen or pineapple cloth are fully tucked, with lace insertion between each group. They invariably button down the back with white crocheted buttons. The sleeves have an exaggerated bag below the elbow, and the collar is fastened on the shirt. It is of the soft stock order.

Then there is another style, the more severe waist of heavier linen, embroidered, and this heavy embroidery is the hallmark of the 1902 smart waist. The Maynard waist, shown in one of the illustrations, has this embroidery front and extending over the shoulders to what might be the yoke-line in the back.

It is a burning question with the fair shirtwaist girl whether it is better to have the buttons in the back or not. There is one capital argument in favor of waists fastened in the back—the girl who wears them fools everybody into thinking she must have a maid, for it is impossible to dress, without assistance.

There is a rage for the full blouse waist, sometimes called the "Gibson," for its very fluffiness makes it indefinite in outline, like the clothes worn by the young ladies in Gibson's drawings of those girls whose length of limb extends quite out of the picture.

We are surely promised a white summer, and a shirtwaist girl—one of the kind who knows—has whispered to me that the leading dressmakers promise that this law must be as exacting as the laws of the Medes and Persians. Percale will be popular, for it launders perfectly. White butchers' linen and fine white embroidered linen are the correct materials. The correct materials are not the only essential—it is the girl who is necessary, for she must know how to wear this now popular garment.

The shirtwaist girl of 1902 must be immaculate, careful in detail, thoughtful of belt and collar and reckless with her laundry account.

AS WE SHOULD SEE HER.

Feminine Inhumanity. An Exhibition Of Woman's Generosity.

She was one of those inscrutable women who would remind you of a cat—not a soft, purry tabby, but a vicious little animal that would scratch. She had just finished eating a table d'hôte luncheon in a department-store restaurant. The dining-room was crowded and people were awaiting their turns near other people's chairs.

Seeing that this woman had completed her luncheon, another woman stepped behind her chair and was patiently waiting for her to vacate the place, which she supposed would be in a few moments, as the last drop of coffee had been drained from her cup and the waitress had brought her change.

The woman at the table started to rise. The other woman sighed a breath of relief. But suddenly she sat down again in her and made a big brown pool on the cloth before her.

Then she leisurely rose and offered her seat to the lady behind her. As plain as words her eyes flashed, "Anyway, I've kept you waiting a long time and soiled the cloth where you will have to eat."

But the message she received from the other woman's eyes in return made her lower her face and slink away like Ignorance before the Light.

As she walked toward the elevator she glanced back. To her chagrin, the woman was not sitting before the wet tablecloth at all, but was just accepting a seat vacated by a gentleman who had been quietly watching the exhibition of the generosity of woman to woman.

chair, and a cunning triumph crept into her eyes and lurked about her mouth.

"I'll have another cup of coffee," she said to the waitress.

It was brought and slowly sipped. The woman behind the chair patiently waited, thinking she would soon be finished. But just before the coffee was gone the waitress was again beckoned.

"Bring me a piece of strawberry shortcake," she said, and as she waited she thought to herself, "She can't make me get out of here until I get ready."

The woman behind the chair said to herself, "Well, I can stand it as long as she can. It is not costing me anything."

When the shortcake was about half disposed of the woman sat back in her chair and refused to eat another bite until the waitress brought her another cup of coffee. Then she ate the last bite and drank some of the coffee. What was left she slyly spilled Street Car And Carriage.

We have in mind a lady.
A genuine thoroughbred,
Who never had a carriage
Before she was wed.

We see her almost daily
Come driving down the street
In sweller, finer turnouts
Than most of those we meet.

The husband she got with them
Was very rich, and she Thought money was much better
Than scripping poverty.

Perhaps her pleasure's greater
To have the wealthy snap,
But
She looked a whole lot happier
When hanging to a strap.

CLIPPING THE NAIL.

thing to have a good professional treat the nails at least once a week; and this should be supplemented by a little personal attention daily. The fingers and nails will then be in a very fair condition, and when the summer outing is begun the personal care should be doubled, for when once the nails get into a bad way it takes sometime to bring them into good shape again.

To treat one's own nails satisfactorily is always somewhat difficult, but in cases where this is necessary no better suggestions can be given than those followed by the most approved scientific manicures.

A poor manicure is worse than none at all, for she will have the cuticle in a ragged and uneven state, which only time and careful treatment will successfully cure. For this nails than flat, stubby hands; yet the nails should never appear exaggerated, either in length or shape.

The day of conspicuous fingertips has passed, and the aim seems to be to have the nails look as neat, well kept and pretty as art and nature can make them, without having their appearance proclaim their recent visit to the professional manicure.

Clipping and filing are comparatively easy to do for one's self, and with a little care this can very soon be managed successfully. The cuticle, however, will be found much more difficult to handle, and not every professional, even, treats this part of the fingers properly.

In order to soften and, at the same time, to loosen the skin around the nail, the fingers are first dipped into a bowl of lukewarm water, into which has been poured a few drops of some pleasant antiseptic. They are allowed to remain in this for some time, and are then gently dried with a soft towel.

A flat orange stick, wound with a bit of cotton, is next used to loosen the skin around the nail. This is lifted up, not pushed down and back, remember, for such a movement cracks and splits the cuticle. A knife is excellent for assisting at this work, for there are many places where the skin still adheres to the nail.

This cuticle knife, by the way, may be had in various shapes and sizes, but at the scientific parlors they recommend a new and improved kind, which has a broad, flat blade, showing a beveled point. This beveled point slips under the cuticle very easily, yet is not sharp enough to injure the skin or nail in any way.

However, the blade should be used with great care, and there should be no rough scraping of the nail. This requires a certain amount of skill, and the beginner, especially if she is trying it on her own hands, will no doubt make a few bad slashes before she is thoroughly familiar with handling the knife.

When the cuticle is sufficiently loosened it is rubbed up very gently, so that all ragged edges will be plainly visible. These should be snipped off with the small curved scissors, which are also used for cutting out hangnails. Trimming the cuticle is a barbarous method and by no means improves its appearance. On the contrary, the constant cutting makes it grow faster, while at the same time it becomes toughened. Good manicures never make this mistake, and if you will observe the hands that have received scientific treatment you will notice how delicate and pink the rim of the cuticle appears.

The advice is to be extremely careful about this particular part of the treatment, for the appearance of the nails may be altogether spoiled by a too zealous use of the cuticle knife and scissors.

An excellent way to keep the skin around the nails and at the ends of the fingers in good condition is to rub it well every night with some good paste, which softens and preserves the epidermis. Fingertips that are inclined to crack and split will be greatly improved by this use of cream, and in just a short time you will notice how much easier they are to treat after these applications.

Any spots of discoloration as well as particles of dust or skin may be removed with the orange stick dipped in a bleaching fluid. This is rubbed over and under the nail.

All spots of mud on dresses may be removed by rubbing with a raw potato.
